What makes Kayla Ragland smile? "Being around friends and family," said the 15-year-old, a sophomore at Noblesville High School. She was found on a recent Saturday morning serving pancakes with the NHS Key Club during the Noblesville Kiwanis Sunrisers pancake breakfast benefiting the Boys & Girls Club of Noblesville. She is a member of the NHS Key Club, which annually helps the Kiwanis Club make pancakes and sausage for the fundraiser at the BGCN Community Center. The Key Club is an international service organization and is the high school branch of Kiwanis International, as a service leadership program and as a Kiwanis Youth Program. At NHS, she is also involved with Bring Change to Mind, a club that brings awareness to mental health; and Lend A Paw, a club that volunteers at animal shelters. She is the daughter of Brian and Lori Ragland. She has one older sister, Reilly, a student at University of Southern Indiana; and one younger brother, Conner, who attends The Hope Source in Indianapolis. Passions? "I do like singing, and I like the arts, I like painting. I'm interested in music, psychology and law." She has recently selected her courses for her junior year for 2022-23, and those courses will include Psychology, Sociology, Law Education, AP Photography and Sports Medicine. Someday, she hopes to be a forensic psychologist or a criminal lawyer. Read more about the NHS Key Club in the Betsy Reason column in an upcoming edition of

Since March is Women's History Month, this seemed like a good time to write about the early women's rights movement in Hamilton County.

Believe it or not, Indiana was one of the first states to hold Woman's Rights Conventions.

(In the beginning, it was always "woman's rights," singular, not "women's rights." I'm not sure when "women's rights" became the preferred term.) Indiana's first Woman's Rights Convention took place in the Wayne County town of Dublin in 1851, just three years after the first national conference in

Seneca Falls, New York. A permanent women's rights society was organized the following year at a convention in Richmond. Annual state conventions continued after that, moving between Richmond, Indianapolis and Winchester, until 1860 when

Leslie James "Jim" Hadley

Feb. 25, 2022 - March 10, 1945

Leslie James "Jim" Hadley, age 76, of Boxley, Ind., passed away unexpectedly at his home on Friday, Feb. 25, 2022. He was born in Noblesville, Ind., on March 10, 1945, son of the late Charles Darrel and Mary Anna (Cline) Hadley. Following his graduation from Sheridan High School with the Class of 1963, Mr. Hadley honorably served his country in the United States Navy.

For many years he was a truck driver for the Jolietville CO-OP terminal and would later manage the grain terminal at the Farm Bureau CO-OP in Noblesville.

Mr. Hadley attended the Boxley United Methodist Church, where he was an active member of the congregation.

A true sports enthusiast, he took his passion a little bit further than most. He was a licensed referee and umpire for Little League and was a fixture within the Sheridan Rec. Program at Biddle Park. His dedication to the activity was a wonderful way of giving back to the community and helping foster a love and respect for the game. When he wasn't actively involved in a game, he enjoyed just sitting and watching when he had the opportunity. It was a nice change of pace, arguing at the officials on TV, instead of the other way around. He followed both NASCAR and the Indianapolis Colts. Mr. Hadley was also supportive of the Sheridan High School Band program; he was an active band parent and booster for many years.

He was also a history buff. He loved genealogy and was fascinated with coin collecting, but the Civil War was what really piqued his interest.

Mr. Hadley had many interests in his life, but his favorite, without a doubt, were his grandchildren.

Survivors include his former wife, Janet Sue Hadley; daughters Jennifer (Andrew) Lynn Bradley of Noblesville and Joanna (Joe) Lee Gainey of Sheridan; grandchildren Charlotte Quinn Bradley, Willow Victoria Bradley, Ella Rose Gainey and Lillian Mae Gainey; brothers Jean (Shirley) Allan Hadley of Pittsboro, Richard D. Hadley of Bloomington, and Michael Hadley of Peru, Indiana; sisters Diana Fitzpatrick of Naples, Florida, Teresa (Dan) Perry of Brownsburg, and Deborah Estrada (Kevin) of Goodyear, Arizona; and many, many nieces and nephews.

He was preceded in death by his parents; brothers, Charles Hadley, Jr. of Lady Lake, Florida, and Steve Hadley of Avon; and sister, Janice Carol Folds of Tampa, Florida.

Services are scheduled to be held at 7 p.m. on Sat., March 5, 2022, at Kercheval Funeral Home, 306 East 10th Street, Sheridan, Ind., with visitation scheduled to run from 4 p.m. until the time of service. Pastor Mark Fidler will be officiating.

He will be laid to rest at Boxley Cemetery in Boxley, Indiana, at a later date.

Memorial contributions may be presented to the American Foundation for Suicide Prevention.

She was born on Jan. 11, 1925, in Paragould, Arkansas to Clarence and Maude Burton.

In 1943, she graduated valedictorian from Oak Grove High School in Paragould, Arkansas. On August 21, 1943, she married the love of her life, Harvey Rogers. They were married for 78 years.

The Rogers moved to Indiana in 1952 and were faithful members of Prairie Baptist Church in Noblesville for 69 years, where Mrs. Rogers served as a Sunday School teacher for many years and was involved with many ministries including the mission circle and church choir. She loved her family, her church and her Lord and Savior

Mrs. Rogers loved to garden. She loved all the work involved, taking great pleasure in planting, cultivating, harvesting, and even pulling weeds. She worked tirelessly to preserve the food she grew and hated for anything to go to waste. She loved watching the birds, especially her hummingbirds. Mrs. Rogers loved making quilts, and spent her winters with her quilting frame, creating masterpieces one tiny stitch at a time.

She was a willing worker, and a caring friend to everyone she met. Her greatest desire was that others and especially her family would know Jesus as their Lord and Savior. She is greatly loved and will be greatly missed.

BBB Warning: Beware Of Charity Scams When Donating To Ukraine

As the Russian invasion of Ukraine continues, many people are looking to help out in any way possible. For a lot of us, that involves wanting to donate money or other items to be sent to Ukraine, through a charity or crowdfunding platform.

Better Business Bureau® and BBB® Wise Giving Alliance want to remind you to watch out for crowdfunding and other charity scams.

"Unfortunately, scammers love to use times of tragedy and unrest to take advantage of kind-hearted people, said Melanie Duquesnel, President & CEO of Better Business Bureau Serving Eastern Michigan and the Upper Peninsula. "We know that everyone wants to help as much and as quickly as they can, but it is so important to take a pause and do your research, so that you do not fall victim to a scam."

Here are some tips to keep in mind when looking for ways to give to Ukraine:

- Can the charity get to the impacted area? Not all relief organizations will be positioned to provide relief quickly. See if the charity already has a presence in Ukraine.
- Should you send clothing and food? Local drives to collect clothing and food to send overseas may not be practical as the logistics and timing to deliver and disperse such items will be challenging. Relief organizations are better equipped to obtain what is needed, distribute it effectively and avoid duplication of effort.
- Does the relief charity meet BBB Charity Standards? You can verify a charity's trustworthiness by viewing an evaluative report completed by BBB Wise Giving Alliance. See the list provided below of charities that that are soliciting for relief assistance for Ukraine and that also meet the BBB Standards for Charity Accountability.
  - Is the charity experienced in providing emergency relief? Experienced disaster relief charities are the best bet to help deliver aid as soon as possible. New entrants may have difficulty in following through even if they have the best of intentions.

- Are you considering crowdfunding appeals? If engaging in crowdfunding, it is safest to give to someone you personally know and trust. You should also review the platform's policies regarding fees and distribution of collected funds. If the crowdfunding request is from a charity, check out the group by visiting Give.org. Keep in mind that some crowdfunding sites do very little vetting of individuals or organizations that decide to post for relief assistance. Sites that take security measures will usually provide descriptions of these procedures.
- Does the appeal make exaggerated financial claims such as "100% will be spent on relief?" Charities have fundraising and administrative expenses. Any charity claiming otherwise is potentially misleading the donating public. Even a credit card donation will have a processing fee.

For more information on finding reputable charities or to report a scam, visit bbb.org.

For more than 100 years, the Better Business Bureau has been helping people find businesses, brands, and charities they can trust. In 2021, people turned to BBB more than 189 million times for BBB Business Profiles on more than 5.4 million businesses and Charity Reports on over 11,000 charities, all available for free at BBB.org. The International Association of Better Business Bureaus (IABBB) is the umbrella organization for the local, independent BBBs in the United States, Canada, and Mexico. floor of the Nickel Plate Arts' Stephenson House on Eighth Street in downtown Noblesville.

"Gal's Guide is all about shining a spotlight on women of history, and we know not everyone is an avid reader, so showcasing artwork is another way to share the joy of learning about someone new or seeing historical women in a new light," Leach said.

Leach started the library after two years of a podcast called "Your Gal Friday," a student-friendly podcast with more than 50 episodes. Each week, Phoebe Frear and Leach would research a woman of history and share in a "PG-13 friendly way that educators could use" in classrooms or as supplemental material.

Many times, they found a book that was mentioned in research but was out of print and out of circulation. Knowing they were only one podcast, they wondered about other podcasters and researchers seeking these books. "Who's keeping an open space for these books?" Leach wondered.

So in 2019, she brought to the board of directors of Gal's Guide the idea of changing the mission to opening a library to protect, preserve and share women's history books.

In 2020, Gal's Guide Library opened to the public with 1,500 books, which came from donations, used book sales and money from a grant from the Open Meadows Foundation in New York. Gal's Guide Library has since grown to 5,000 books, thanks to donations and "Patreon

"We take donations of books of any kind and sort them out," Leach said. "What fits our lending collection are books written by women or about women," she said. They're seeking mostly nonfiction. However, whatever books don't fit in the collection will be sold to raise money for the library or to give to little libraries around town, Indy Book Project or Goodwill,

So, why the Nickel Plate? The Gal's Guide Library came to Nickel Plate Arts after looking for a home for a long time and talking to mayors and city leaders all around Indianapolis. "Noblesville Mayor Chris Jensen scheduled a meeting with me and with help from his assistant we started talking to Nickel Plate Arts," Leach said. Nickel Plate had a small space open up. "Nickel Plate was the perfect location at the perfect time of our evolution," she said. Becoming a "Studio Artist" at Nickel Plate allowed for low-cost rent with a built-in community of creative people and events, Leach said. "We consider the Gal's Guide Library a literary art within the NPA campus."

As executive director of Gal's Guide Library, Leach said it's her "fulltime job." For the first five years of the organization, she was not paid, by choice. "I have worked hard to create a situation where I can do the most good and be rewarded with good karma instead of money. I'm not a person who values money, I value time and helpfulness I can put into a community," she said. She wants the donations to stay in the organization. Her goal is to keep the doors open and the rent paid. This year, for the first time, the board decided she would be paid a very small salary.

Gal's Guide Library has regular book club meetings on the last Thursday of each month on Zoom, a video-conferencing platform that connects people around the nation and the world. In February, the club read "On Juneteenth" by Annette Gordon-Reed. In March, they're reading

"Georgia," by Dawn Trip. Does Gal's Guide Library attract author visits? "When it comes to book signings, the authors come to us," Leach said. Hamilton County Historian David Heighway had a book signing at the library on his book tour. As did USA Today award-winning author Nan Reinhardt. As book tours return nationally, since COVID, Leach expects to have more author visits by local and national authors. "We have asked (Australian) comedian Hannah Godsby to come, just before she broke her leg in Iceland," Leach said.

On March 13, the first Gal's Guide anthology -with a diverse collection of stories, memories, inspirations and poems relating to women and women of history -- will be released, featuring authors as close as Noblesville and as far away as Ireland and the UK.

There is an event at the library almost weekly, with First Fridays a wonderful time to see the new monthly spotlight. On Saturdays, Gal's Guide Library offers a craft get-together. There are new podcasts on Mondays and a new audiobook chapter on Friday.

While interviewing Leach, I couldn't help but ask more about her filmmaking.

"I joke that in a past life, I was a filmmaker," said Leach, who has produced 18 films for which she has earned 13 awards.

"I didn't have much use for the money, but the camera I could make music videos with, and so I did," said Leach, who worked in video stores and movie theaters. "I have mad movie knowledge, and many of my friends don't want to play movie trivia games with me," she said.

Later, she worked at Rockfort TV studio, did an internship at Madonna University where she was on a team that made a music video that showed on MTV in the very early hours. She moved to California and attended UCLA until she could no longer afford it. She eventually made her way to Indiana where she decided to reinvent herself and make films.

"I'd say my greatest achievement in my film work is that one of the ladies who started with me as an intern on a short film now works at Netflix," Leach said. "Awards are awesome, finishing films are a treasure, showing films to an audience is fantastic, but seeing how I gave a person a place to build a resume, learn a skill and take ownership of their life and passion and see them succeed is even better."

What else? Her husband, Josh, joined the U.S. Army on Sept. 11 in an effort to help his country. The couple was stationed in Georgia. "When we got out of service, we moved to Indiana because I had family here." They fell in love with an old house in Noblesville in 2009 and have been here ever since. They have two kids, Samantha, a Noblesville High School freshman, and Kami, a Ball State University freshman.

Being a filmmaker, has she met anyone famous?

When living in Los Angeles, the joke is that at every restaurant you meet one producer, three actors and five writers. "It's a variance on how recognizable they are."

But she did admit, "My favorite famous people

Lastly, any advice? "Do what helps the community Millers Head Coach in which you are passionate about," Leach said. "Once you are no longer passionate, and you start to become a person you don't like, find a new way to help the community that is better in line with the person you want to be."

Beyond Shade's electric, record-tying 31-point saw another record set: the throw percentage, .853. from the line, while Franklin Community shot 16-19, Donna Buckley was humble in the wake of the win, saying, "Our kids expected to win, they have been playing really well lately. The girls were really excited and confident going into the game. Obviously, Franklin is good and we expected a tough game but we played really well and finished out the second half well to get the win." Coach Buckley was quick to praise Ashlynn Shade's 31-point game, but emphasized the team-nature of the win. She said, "She (Shade) played really well and did what she did, but it allowed our other players to open up and play well. When she drew doubles, other girls stepped up and Finally, with no seniors graduating, I asked Coach Buckley about expectations for next season. But she said, "Right now, we are going to enjoy the win and just see what happens when we get back at it during the off-season." After a dominating 24-point win, the Millers have certainly earned the right to enjoy their victory.

the threat of civil war brought them to a halt.

The first post-war convention took place in Indianapolis in June, 1869.

A month later, a group of women met in Westfield to organize a Woman's Rights Association. A constitution was adopted, officers were elected and an initiation fee of 50 cents was established. Members were to meet weekly at Westfield's town hall.

That initial meeting didn't go unnoticed. In the months that followed, the subject of women's rights was a hot topic among readers of the Hamilton County Register (the ancestor of the Ledger.)

One snarky Deming man, "Oliver Optic" (letters to the editor usually appeared under aliases,) took a dim view of women gaining equal treatment.

He argued that if women and men both wore pants there would be nothing to restrain men from using obscene language and declared, "when women wear breeches and make laws, we will have no more girl babies born into the world."

"Marion" shot back, "Suppose the women did wear breeches and literally dress like men, would that change the sex, or in any way change the nature of the sex? I apprehend not." "Ella G." noted that obtaining the right to vote was only a first step. "We claim that every college should open her doors to woman; that custom and society should recognize every avenue of labor as free to woman as to man, that she should have equal wages for equal work.

That October, a Woman's Rights Convention took place in Westfield. Spread over two days, it was attended by over two dozen women from across the county and — surprisingly — nearly as many Several resolutions were discussed at the meeting, including one thanking Indiana Congressman George W. Julian for introducing "the Sixteenth Amendment" to the U.S. Constitution earlier that year. It was the first bill for women's suffrage ever submitted to Congress.

(Julian's bill died without a vote. We had to wait for the Nineteenth Amendment.)

In addition to several local speakers, the conference featured two impressive female orators — "Mrs. Swank" of Indianapolis and "Mrs. Livermore" of Chicago.

"Mrs. Swank" was Emma B. Swank, one of the most prominent voices of the Indiana women's movement at that time. She served twice as president of the state Woman's Rights Society.

"Mrs. Livermore" was Mary A. Livermore, a journalist, abolitionist and women's rights advocate with a national reputation. She was a tireless lecturer on behalf of women's suffrage and the temperance movement.

A constitution and bylaws for a new county organization, the Hamilton County Woman's Suffrage Convention were also presented during the conference. However, the 1869 convention seems to have been the only one ever held here.

I'm not sure what happened, but I did spot a notice in an 1870 newspaper that the "Woman's Suffrage Association at Westfield" had joined the Good Templars, a fraternal organization dedicated to temperance.

My best guess is, the temperance movement, which was very strong in Hamilton County, absorbed the local women's suffrage movement.
