Looking Back . . . and Moving Forward

TIM TIMMONS
Two Cents

As the Noblesville Times ends another year and inches closer to turning 120 years old, it seems a good time to reflect . . . as well as keeping one eye on the road ahead. After all, it's not very wise to drive with both eyes constantly on the rear-view.

First off, at the end of every year I think back to how many times I have heard people say that our parent company, Saga-more News Media, won't last. The predictions of doom and gloom have ranged from two weeks to six months.

Yet here we are.

Hey, I get it. SNM was born in 2004 and most start-up companies don't make it five years. In addition, the entire media world is undergoing the most dramatic upheaval in its history.

We've clearly beaten the odds – just like the Noblesville Times that got its start in 1904.

But no one at the world-wide HQ is bragging. We realize we wouldn't be here without you . . . and you . . . and you . . . and, well, you get the idea. From loyal advertisers to loyal readers to staff – past and present – you have made this happen.

To be sure, it's been a lot of work, but it's also been a labor of love. Over these almost 20 years, we have won a bunch of news and advertising awards. The plaques and certificates line the walls of The Times, as well as our world-wide HQ. More important than that, the report on our stewardship – what we have given back each year to this wonderful place we call

2022's Notable Nineties & Sensational Centenarians

PAULA DUNN
From Time to Thyme

Once again it's time to honor our Notable Nineties (and a few "graduates" who've become Sensational Centenarians!)

If you follow this column regularly, you'll know all this already, but in case you're a new reader – the Notable Nineties is something Jerry Snyder thought up several years ago when she was writing her column for The Times.

Jerry had noticed that a lot of people in this county were 90 years old or older. She felt that deserved some kind of special recognition, so she started a list she called the "Notable Nineties."

After Jerry passed away, I kept the list going.

Any Hamilton County resident 90 years old or older can be a Notable Ninety. You don't have to do anything special; just having made it to your 90th birthday is special enough.

If you know someone 90 or

New Year's Eve Dance Lessons

JOHN O. MARLOWE
With The Grain

There's a paradox I've discovered that few people recognize or understand. Fat guys and Filipinos are great dancers.

It's true. Not that any of you might notice. Being in the company of dancing fat guys and Filipinos is rare, indeed. Nevertheless, opportunities are out there, if you look carefully.

It happened to me three years ago. My love life was a shipwreck, after being dashed upon the breakwater in the sea of "The One Who Got Away." Emotionally, I was still in survivor mode even though several months had passed since the breakup. New Year's Eve was drawing near. All I could think about was that I was going to be alone, and my ex no doubt would be having the time of her life at one of the numerous parties she'd be invited to attend.

All week long I obsessed about my approaching loneliness, until by nine o'clock New Year's Eve I could stand it no more. I was getting out of here!

My golfing buddy, David "Biscuit" Miller, was in the city for a rare holiday engagement in his hometown. I was going to find where he was playing and have a good time, regardless how I truly felt inside.

David is a national award-winning blues singer, and fronts a terrific jazz / funk / blues band that features an eclectic mix of amazing young artists and venerable musicians, some of whom played with renowned bands – like Rick James and Chick Corea – early in their careers. David usually schedules his holiday engagements in Florida or the islands, so this was a rare occasion to have him in town for the wintry New Year's week.

Several couples from our golf course were heading across town to see David play, but for weeks I had declined their invitations to join. I was more interested in feeling sorry for myself. New Year's Eve after all is mostly a "couples evening," and I had been, well . . .

Terry Wariner to Play Legion's Last New Year's Eve at Current Building

BETSY REASON
The Times Editor

The Noblesville American Legion Frank E. Huntzinger Post 45 will ring in the New Year with a big party and live music.

It will be a celebration to remember as veterans and all guests are invited to attend the final New Year's Eve celebration at the Conner Street American Legion before moving to a new location on South Eighth Street in 2023.

"It is open to the public and it is the last one here," said Legion Post commander John Morris.

The Times reported in January that voting Post members unanimously approved to sell the Legion's property at 1094 Conner St., to a buyer and to purchase property elsewhere. In June, the Legion announced that Church, Church, Hittle & Antrim (attorneys) would buy the Legion property, and the Legion would buy the (historic) R.L. Wilson property at 273 S. Eighth St., in Noblesville. The new location is expected to open by summer 2023.

"It is very surreal. There is a ton of history here which you hate to move from but the time comes you have to move forward," said Morris, a Joliet, Ill., native, who has been Post Commander for about 18 months and served in the U.S. Navy from 1987 to 1993.

OBITUARIES

Adam Michael Gordon Johnson September 20, 2005-December 18, 2022

Adam Michael Gordon Johnson, 17, of Kokomo, Indiana, passed away on Sunday morning, Dec. 18, 2022, in Tipton County.

He was born in Marion County on Sept. 20, 2005, son of Michael Chad Johnson and Nakita Aldridge.

Mr. Johnson was a 2022 graduate of Kokomo High School. He was an avid gamer who enjoyed coding and server creation. He was also a content creator for the Youtube and Twitch platforms.

Family was a very important part of his life. Mr. Johnson loved reading and telling bedtime stories to his siblings. Whenever there was a need within the family, or his circle of friends, he was always the first one there to help. Being kind, respectful, and putting others before himself was how he chose to live his life.

Mr. Johnson's smile was infectious, and he always loved being the life of the party.

Everyone who knew him lost a piece of their heart when he left us. He was a great friend to all and had an amazing impact on everyone who had the absolute pleasure of knowing him.

Survivors include his parents Michael Chad Johnson and Nakita Aldridge; second parents (aunt and uncle) Cody and Elizabeth Petro; maternal grandfather Gordon Ledbetter; 5 brothers Tucker Aldridge, Dalton Johnson and Garrett Johnson, all of Windfall, and Noah Petro and Jonah Petro of Kokomo; sister Michelle Johnson of Windfall; feline BFF Carole Baskin; and dog Otis.

He was preceded in death by his maternal grandmother Yvonne Petro.

A Celebration of Life is scheduled to take place at 7 p.m. on Wednesday, Dec. 28, 2022, in the Sheridan High School/Middle School Auditorium, 3030 West 246th St., Sheridan, with visitation scheduled to run from 4 p.m. until the time of service.

Connor Gavin Petro

November 13, 2004-December 18, 2022

Connor Gavin Petro, age 18, of Sheridan, Indiana, passed away on Sunday morning, Dec. 18, 2022, in Tipton County, Indiana.

He was born on Nov. 13, 2004, at Wishard Hospital in Indianapolis.

Mr. Petro was a senior at Sheridan High School. He loved playing football for the Blackhawks. Due to injuries, #55 had to sit out his senior year, but that didn't keep him from supporting his teammates. He was there for every game, sporting his trademark daisy duke shorts and cutoff sleeves. Mr. Petro dreamt of going further as a player, becoming a lineman and possibly playing for his favorite team, the New England Patriots.

He was a very hard worker who enjoyed his employment at both Menards and Wilson's Farm Market.

Ask anybody about Mr. Petro, and you'd probably get the same description—he was a gentle giant until you made him mad. His size could be intimidating, but once you got to know him, you quickly realized he was harmless. He was fiercely devoted to his family and friends.

He could instantly light up a room. Mr. Petro had a smile that could change your whole day. He loved to joke around, and nobody was immune from being a target, not even his teachers.

He loved his family. He was his dad's sidekick, his mom's protector and the brother that every sister should be lucky enough to have. As Mr. Petro and his sister started getting older, they started doing more things together. He had a very close relationship with his grandfather and uncle. His two younger brothers always looked up to him, even if they had to endure some teasing... but that's what brothers are for. For them, continuing Mr. Petro's legacy on the field would be an honor.

Although his time here on Earth was short, he did what he was sent here to do... share his love, humor, and his strength. God just needed him back to make Heaven a little rowdier. He made an impact on everyone he met, and he will continue to live in the hearts of those of us that were lucky enough to be a part of his life.

Survivors include his parents John Gordon and Sarah Nicole (O'Connor) Petro of Sheridan; paternal grandfather Gordon Ledbetter of Atlanta, Ind.; maternal grandmother Shannon Stewart of Ark.; brothers Gayge Petro of Sheridan, Brayden Petro of Sheridan, Noah Petro of Kokomo and Johan Petro of Kokomo; sister Savannah O'Connor Petro of Sheridan; and canine BFF Hank.

He was preceded in death by his maternal grandfather John O'Connor; maternal great grandmother Helen Jones; paternal grandmother Yvonne Petro; maternal great grandparents Ronald and Gloria Stewart; great-great grandmother Hazel Liddle; and great-great-great aunt Ruby Lynn.

A Celebration of Life is scheduled to take place at 7 p.m. on Wednesday, Dec. 28, 2022, in the Sheridan High School / Middle School Auditorium, 3030 West 246th Street, Sheridan, Indiana, with visitation from 4:00 pm until the time of service.

Thanks for the Memories (Part 2)

DICK WOLFSIE
Life in a Nutshell

This is Part Two of my look back at 2022 with appreciation for those people, places and things that made my column possible. So, thanks...
...to the cashier at Walmart who had been watching me as I jogged around the entire store several times to avoid the freezing weather and still get in my 15,000 steps. While running, I picked up a $10.00 pair of warm gloves, but she said my total was $14.89.
“What’s the extra charge?” I asked.
“Mileage,” she said.
...to the clerk at the dollar store who was at the register the day the prices went up to $1.25. I bought a balloon for a party I was going to, not aware of the price increase.
“Why are the balloons so high?” I asked.
“Because we put helium in them,” she responded.
...to my sister who encouraged me to meditate to deal with my insomnia. “I do it every day,” she said. “I feel like I am one with everything.” That was good enough for me, because that’s the way I order a hot dog at Costco.

...to Mary Ellen, who is critical of how I mow the lawn. One day she detailed all of the things I do wrong, like not keeping the rows straight and not properly mulching. After she finished, I told her I felt very emasculated. “That reminds me,” she added, “I think the blades need sharpening.”
...to whoever makes remote controls. You guys need to find a way to prevent them from disappearing just before people need them. I connected my remote to a long piece of dental floss and tied it to the leg of the couch. Now I not only find the device quickly, but I also have 27 percent less plaque between my teeth.
...to the tech guys at the cell phone store who laughed when I told them I once left my phone in the freezer after I tried to extricate a pint of ice cream that was stuck in there.
“Did the phone work when you found it?” asked the salesman.
“Yes,” I said, “but the screen was frozen for two days.”
...to the Prevagen people who make a supplement that supposedly improves your memory. Mary Ellen and I both took the pills for a few weeks. One night Mary Ellen was annoyed with me. “I am hurt because you once told me I was starting to look a little chubby in a bathing suit,” she said.

“Wow, that was 40 years ago.”
“I know, I just remembered.”
...to me, for not realizing until the middle of some movies that I may have already viewed them. Recently my wife and I were watching Toy Story 3 and I was sure we hadn’t seen it, since one of the characters didn’t look familiar.
“You don’t recognize Mr. Potato Head? He was also in Toy Story 2.”
“Well, maybe he had a different nose.”
And a final shout-out to the Hammacher Schlemmer gift catalog. My favorite item in this year’s holiday edition is the Side Sleeper’s Ergonomic Pillow: Ideal for someone who is sleeping with someone on the side. The pillow adjusts to your head and neck and provides support. Providing support is what you will have to do if you get caught.

A Good Bar of Soap and the Small Things

CARRIE CLASON
The Postscript

A new year is coming, and I am focusing on the small stuff.
It is popular to make big, sweeping statements in a new year about the things that will change and be accomplished. I noticed a few years back that these grand announcements rarely had much effect.
What mattered, if I wanted to live a different kind of life, was the little things I did every day. I take my walk. I write a few words. I do my pushups. I’ve gotten used to watching in amazement how a tiny action, done daily, leads me to a place that seemed impossible just a few months earlier.
What I didn’t notice until recently is that it works the same way with little rewards. Small things make my life better in surprisingly big ways.
It all started with my soap.
Every day, I wash my hands several times and, every day, I use whatever soap I found that was on sale. If a package of six bars cost 50 cents less, that was the one I would buy. But while I was in Mexico, I bought a good bar of soap that cost a lot more—still less than a cup of coffee—but much more than I usually paid.

“Wow! My hands smell good.”
They felt good, too. I wondered why the heck I hadn’t done this long ago. I thought of all the years I never got one moment’s enjoyment out of washing my hands, and I wondered why on Earth that was. I went back to the store. I bought six bars. I gave some as gifts at Christmas. I stockpiled some for my own use. I decided—in this new year—I was going to treat myself to a wonderful bar of soap every time I washed my hands.
Then I got a new coffee cup.
Why did I go for so many years using whatever old cup was in the cupboard instead of realizing what a nice thing it is to have a pretty cup? My new cup is lovely. It doesn’t drip when I drink from it. It is brightly painted and handmade. It gives me a little pleasure every time I use it and I use it all morning long.
I thought of some of the larger purchases I’d made over the years that had given me very little pleasure. I thought of the purses and dresses that I rarely use, always imagining some special occasion when I would need them. The special occasion either never comes, or it ends up being a lot less special than I imagined. But a nice coffee cup? That cup gives me pleasure every day all day long.

Big stuff, I have decided, is overrated.
The little place we rent in Mexico with the slightly worse-for-wear Formica countertop and the mismatched furniture is perfect. It is not fancy. It is small. It reminds me that simple is easier and I don’t need big. It reminds me how little is enough.
So, in this new year, I am focusing on the small things—both the little things I do and the little things that surround me every day. I’m focusing on the things that consistently bring me joy—the fresh flowers on my desk, my colorful new coffee cup, the smell of good soap. The moments of joy add up and make my day better. The days add up to make a happier life.
Now I just have to figure out what to do with a year’s supply of cheap soap.
Till next time, Carrie

Dear Community Patron,
The Beta Epsilon Chapter of Tri Kappa of Noblesville along with The Times newspaper of Noblesville will be sponsoring the 17th annual Noblesville Red Stocking Fund. In 2021, we collected over $13,500, thanks to the generosity of so many citizens of Noblesville. We are asking you to consider making a donation in 2022 for this very worthwhile cause.
Donations collected last year were distributed through the Noblesville Trustee’s Office to students in Noblesville schools as well as to each school. New clothing, shoes, socks and school supplies were provided. And this year, the need is even greater. In the last 17 years, more than $204,500 has been raised to support this community fundraiser.
Donations will be collected from now through December 25th and will be used throughout 2023 to help those who are less fortunate in Noblesville Township. There are no administrative fees; both Tri Kappa and The Times newspaper donate their efforts, allowing 100% of the donations to be used for the children of Noblesville.
If you would like to contribute, please print your name, donation amount (this will remain anonymous) and the short message you would like printed in the newspaper. The Times newspaper will publish weekly in November and December the names of the contributors and their holiday message. NOTICE OF ADOPTION OF SUPPLEMENTAL PRELIMINARY DETERMINATION Notice is hereby given pursuant to Indiana Code § 6-1.1-20-3.5 that the Board of Trustees (the "Board") of Hamilton East Public Library (the "Library") did on December 15, 2022 make a supplemental preliminary determination regarding the funding of the renovation of and improvements to Fishers Public Library, including site improvements and the purchase of real estate, equipment and technology (the "Project").

The Board of the Library on April 23, 2020 (the "Original Hearing"), previously made a preliminary determination to issue bonds for Project. The Library has issued such bonds; however, the Library has determined that in order to construct the Project as needed, it anticipates that it will spend cash to fund the balance of the Project and therefore supplemental hearings and preliminary determination was needed. No additional bonds will be issued.

At that Original Hearing, and as presented at the supplemental hearing, it was determined that bonds would have a maximum maturity of 21 years with no one bond series exceeding a maturity of 20 years, a maximum principal amount of $16,050,000 and estimated interest rates ranging from 1.30% to 4.20% resulting in total estimated interest costs of $6,166,874.

As required by Indiana Code § 6-1.1-20-3.5(b)(1), the following information was available to the public at the public hearings on the preliminary determination: (i) the Library's current and projected annual debt service payments divided by the net assessed value of taxable property within the library district, which is 0.033%, and (ii) the sum of the Library's outstanding long term debt plus the outstanding long term debt of other taxing units that include any other territory of the Library divided by the net assessed value of taxable property within the Library, which is 9.66%. At the time of the Original Hearing, the Library's current debt service levy was $2,293,077 and the current rate was $0.0208. After the bonds are issued, the debt service levy was projected to increase by a maximum of $2,293,077 and the debt service rate was projected to increase by a maximum of $0.0280. However, as existing obligations mature, the anticipated increase to the Debt Service Fund tax rate was expected to be $0.00. The Library reported at this supplemental hearing that the issuance of bonds has actually resulted in no increase to the Library's debt service tax rate, as anticipated.

At the time of the Originally Hearing, the estimated amount of the Library's debt service levy and rate that would result during the following 10 years if the Library issued the bonds, after considering any changes that will occur to the debt service levy and rate during that period on account of any outstanding bonds or lease obligations that will mature or terminate during that period:

Table with 4 columns: Year, Estimated Total Service Levy, Debt Estimated Total Debt Service Tax Rate. Rows for years 2020 through 2030.

The purpose of the bonds was to provide for the Project. No additional bonds will be issued to finance the Project; however, the Library anticipates spending cash in the amount of approximately $900,000 on the Project, resulting in a total project cost of more than $16,050,000.

If a valid petition pursuant to Indiana Code § 6-1.1-20-3.5 is received within 30 days from the publication of this notice, in order for the larger Project to move forward, the debt service payment must be approved in an election on a local public question held under Indiana Code § 6-1.1-20-3.6

Kenny's Favorite Sports Moments in 2022 Love Yourself, Love Others

KENNY THOMPSON
Columnist

With 2023 just days away, it's time to reflect on a memorable year in sports.

I have restricted my top 10 sports stories of 2022 to those opined upon in my weekly columns. Let the countdown begin.

1. Purdue football wins first Big Ten West Division championship – Yes, a prediction that actually came through. Although not quite the path I foresaw back in August, the Boilermakers claimed probably the next-to-last West Division title thanks to road victories against No. 21 Minnesota, Maryland, No. 21 Illinois and Indiana. Despite an expected loss to No. 2 Michigan in the Big Ten Championship Game, Purdue earned a berth against LSU in the Citrus Bowl on Jan. 2.

2. Westfield's Braden Smith wins Mr. Basketball – Smith probably will be sad to see 2022 come to an end. It's been a memorable 365 days for the 6-foot guard. While leading the Shamrocks to the school's first boys basketball sectional championship, Smith became Westfield's all-time leader in scoring (1,629 points) and assists (453). Then Smith became the school's first Indiana Mr. Basketball. Finally, Smith became the starting point guard from Day 1 at Purdue, teaming up with Mr. Basketball runner-up Fletcher Loyer to lead the Boilermakers to a 12-0 start this season. Smith is Purdue's third-leading scorer at 9.4 points a game behind Loyer (13.2) and center Zach Edey (22.6).

3. Purdue basketball again atop rankings – With an all-freshman backcourt and All-American Jaden Ivey making millions with the Detroit Pistons, not much was expected from the Boilermakers during the preseason. All Matt Painter has done is groom a potential National Player of the Year in Zach Edey and watched his freshman guards play like upper-classmen for the first third of the 2022-23 season. That's how Purdue became the fastest school in the Associated Press poll history to go from unranked in the preseason to No. 1 on Dec. 12. Aiding that record rise was a run of marquee victories against Marquette, West Virginia, then-No. 6 Gonzaga and then-No. 8 Duke – the latter three out in Oregon for the Phil Knight Legacy champion-

4. Jeff Brohm exits, Ryan Walters enters – Just two days after leading Purdue to the Big Ten Championship game, news broke that Louisville coach Scott Satterfield was leaving to take over at Cincinnati. That opened up the hometown dream job of Brohm, who turned down the opportunity to coach the Cardinals in 2018. Brohm's departure became official Dec. 8.

When speculation began about his replacement, no one had Illinois defensive coordinator Ryan Walters on their list. Purdue had not hired a defensive-oriented coach since Leon Burtnett in 1982. Walters, 36, was a finalist for the Broyles Award given to the nation's top assistant coach. He'll have a giant task in 2023 with a more difficult schedule (at Michigan, Ohio State, 10-game winner Fresno State, at Virginia Tech, Syracuse) and a new quarterback among several key positions vacated by graduation or transfers.

5. Purdue family loses three legends – The unexpected death of former All-American forward Caleb Swanigan on June 21 marked the first of three Boilermaker greats to pass away in 2022. The 25-year-old Swanigan died of natural causes, the Allen County (Ind.) coroner ruled. The Indiana Mr. Basketball from Homestead became a first-team consensus All-American and the Big Ten Player of the Year in 2017. He was selected 26th overall by Portland in the 2017 NBA Draft.

If Len Dawson had not enrolled at Purdue in 1953, perhaps there would be no "Golden Girl" twirling a baton every home football game at Ross-Ade Stadium. Dawson, a Pro Football Hall of Fame quarterback, died at age 87 on Aug. 24. Legendary Purdue Bands director Al G. Wright noticed that sportswriters were calling Dawson "the golden boy" after his four touchdown performance against No. 1 Notre Dame in 1954. Then, Juanita Carpenter's baton-twirling feats led another writer to remark "and now Purdue has a Golden Girl." Wright thought it was a great idea to promote his program and Purdue has fielded a Golden Girl ever since.

Dawson's legacy spans far beyond his nickname. The Alliance, Ohio native led the nation in 1954 with 15 touchdown passes and a 145.8 passing efficiency. Dawson would be a three-year starter and lead the Big Ten in passing and total offense all three seasons. His path to NFL glory took a detour after stops in Pittsburgh and Cleveland. In 1962, Dawson was reunited with former Purdue assistant Hank Stram with the American Football League's Dallas Texans. Dawson dominated the AFL and guided the Texans to the league title that year. While the Texans became the Kansas City Chiefs in 1963, Dawson's outstanding play continued. Dawson was the MVP of Super Bowl IV and would finish his NFL career with 28,711 passing yards and 239 touchdown passes. He was inducted into the Pro Football Hall of Fame in 1987.

One of the greatest defensive tackles in Purdue history, Dave Butz passed away at 72 on Nov. 4. Butz, who was 6-7 and 280 pounds during his Boilermaker career, was elected to the College Football Hall of Fame in 2014. A consensus All-American as a senior in 1972, Butz was chosen to Purdue's All-Time Team as part of the 100th anniversary celebration of Boilermaker football in 1987.

Selected fifth overall by the then-St. Louis Cardinals in the 1973 NFL Draft, Butz would become famous with Washington. The cost to obtain Butz was two No. 1 draft picks and a No. 2 selection but it proved to be a bargain. He was chosen the NFL's Defensive Player of the year in 1983 after recording a career-high 11 sacks. He earned two Super Bowl rings with Washington.

6. Painter climbs wins list – Only his mentor stands between Matt Painter and Purdue's all-time basketball victory record. Painter surpassed Naismith Hall of Fame coach Piggy Lambert with his 372nd win, 83-73 at Iowa on Jan. 27.

Painter entered the 2022-23 season with 384 victories. After Purdue's 12-0 start, the earliest Painter could reach 400 wins at Purdue is Jan. 8 against Penn State at The Palestra in Philadelphia.

If Painter maintains his current average of 22 victories a season, he could reach Gene Keady's record of 512 during the 2027-28 season. Painter would be 57 years old.

Tom Izzo of Michigan State (673 and counting), Indiana's Bob Knight (658), Keady and the late Lou Henson of Illinois (423) are the only Big Ten coaches with more victories than Painter.

7. Jaden Ivey hits the lottery – The former Purdue guard had an emotional NBA Draft night when the Detroit Pistons selected him fifth overall. Ivey's mother, Niele, played for the Detroit Shock in the WNBA. His grandfather, James Hunter, played cornerback for the Detroit Lions from 1976 to 1982. Receiving a reported $32 million contract over four years, Jaden Ivey is averaging 15.5 points, 4.3

rebounds and 4 assists a game for the Pistons (8-25).

8. George Karlaftis, too – Ivey wasn't the only newly minted Purdue millionaire. All-American defensive end George Karlaftis went to the Kansas City Chiefs with the 30th overall pick of the 2022 NFL Draft. Karlaftis is the 22nd Boilermaker to be chosen in the NFL Draft's first round but the first since fellow member of the Den of Defensive Ends, Ryan Kerrigan, in 2011. Karlaftis, who signed a four-year, $11.9 million contract, has started every game for the Chiefs and has 3.5 sacks among his 26 total tackles through 14 games.

9. Purdue basketball claims 1,000th Big Ten victory – With its 82-76 victory against Michigan on Feb. 5 in Mackey Arena, Purdue became the first program in Big Ten history to win 1,000 conference games. The Boilermakers entered 2022-23 with 1,006 Big Ten wins and a healthy lead over Illinois (978) and Indiana (957).

10. USC, UCLA join the Big Ten – Few saw this move coming from the Big Ten. This response to the SEC adding Texas and Oklahoma stretches the Big Ten's influence from coast (Rutgers) to coast. No doubt both sides saw dollar signs in this arranged marriage. The Big Ten's new TV deal with Fox, CBS and NBC will be worth $7 billion over seven years. The old Pac-12 television contract reportedly was worth $21 million per school. With USC and UCLA expanding the Big Ten to 16 schools, it seems likely the current East-West division format will disappear when the two schools join in 2024.

You can lose about one pound a week if you try. If you don't try you won't lose any.

If you need to save some money then you need to pay yourself first. If you have a paycheck coming in then set a goal for $500 a month if possible. Whatever the amount is will grow if you are faithful each week and month of setting money aside. You can always find a place to spend money. Even if you don't need it, you have it just in case you might.

What do you want to accomplish in 2023? If you do not have a goal of some kind, you will accomplish nothing. Maybe your goal is to just enjoy each day. Enjoy your food. Enjoy your family and friends. Make the best of each day. These are good goals.

Be good to yourself in 2023. Love others as you love yourself. If you don't love yourself, it's almost impossible to love others. Recently we have heard of people committing suicide. They had given up on themselves but wanted to hurt or kill others before they killed themselves. It's tragic when people so hate themselves that they want to hurt others. If people love themselves more then they won't have so much venom and hate for others.

One of the tools of the devil is to bring your life down to where you hate all the things you've done. He brings it up to you often so you can feel horrible about your life's mistakes. People often have trouble forgiving themselves so they begin to binge drink, take drugs and hurt themselves to try to deal with their life's pain. God has forgiveness and hope for all. People don't always forgive but God forgives As God forgives you then you must work on forgiving yourself, loving yourself and forgiving and loving others. You see, that's a great formula. God forgives us, loves us and we are to forgive and love ourselves and then offer this same forgiveness and love to others.

In 2023 you might do something different. Maybe you want to embark on an adventure, change careers or just do better with all you have been handed. Often, all we need to do is focus on what we already have to do and do it a little better.

My prayer for our nation in the year ahead is that we might see politicians work together to accomplish worthy goals that will benefit our country. I hope Ukraine can overcome Russia but other countries need to step up to the plate. America cannot fight everyone's war physically or financially. We must get control of our border. Our nation is being overtaken by millions of undocumented immigrants. Who are these people? Do they all really have noble intentions in America? We must bring back our jobs from China in 2023.

Throughout this year may you have a continuation of what we talk about and pray for during the Christmas season. May it be ongoing every day and may we share it with all along the way. Peace on earth and good will to all people. May you first find it in your life so you can extend it to others.

Fantasy Sleights That Will Make Santa as Jolly as Their Jolliest Little Elf

One imagines Santa has access to some pretty fancy sleighs, being the owner of a centuries-old toy-making enterprise and all. However, he would also have some special requirements. Any grounded conveyance piloted by this world traveler would need to be comfortable, warm, and able to dust off snowy roads. No problem - he can have his choice of an exquisite SUV, sedan, or sports car to keep him as jolly as his jolliest little elf.

2023 Cadillac Escalade-V
This swift sleigh will haul loads of toys toot sweet! More rapid than eagles, it flies on the wings of its hand-built supercharged Corvette V8 engine delivering 682 horsepower and 0-60 mph in 4.4 seconds. Fuel economy of 11/16-MPG city/highway may limit range, but full-time all-wheel-drive will dispense with sprinkled icing. Raise up the air suspension and ride comfortably with Magnetic Ride Control. His round belly will barely jiggle. The most expensive Cadillac stands apart with a black grille, quad exhausts, and 22" wheels. Hands-off Super Cruise allows for munching milk and cookies while only watching the road. Conjuring directions or connecting toys to the stunning 36-speaker AKG Studio Reference audio system is made easy through the 38" curved display. A suite of safety tech keeps Santa safe: Automatic Emergency Braking, rearview camera mirror, blind spot warning, and Safety Alert Seat (vibrates in the direction of danger).

All this will cost Santa at least $149,695.

2023 Genesis G90
After his long journey around the globe, Santa wants some time to relax... and spend some time with The Mrs. He may even prefer a chauffeur that doesn't fart reindeer dust. In past seasons, he may have preferred a Mercedes S-Class, but now could acquire a bling Genesis instead.

It's a sleigh full of toys accessed via digital key that links to smartphones and smartwatches. Upon entry, the Mood Curator sets ambient lighting, audio, fragrance, massage seats, and electric curtains for rear seat relaxation. The 26-speaker Bang & Olufsen audio system recreates world concert venues like Boston Symphony Hall. Real timber, Nappa leather, and panoramic roof further the spoiling. It's a chalet on wheels.

Santa's head elf will taste sugar from the optional 3.5-liter V6 with e-Sueprcharger that conjures 409 reindeerpower. Air suspension transforms from waft to wraith with a switch while rear wheel steering maneuvers like Rudolf after reindeer school. Even a guy who just bought heaps of gifts can afford 18/26-MPG city/highway.

Whip out the black card for prices starting at $88,400 or $98,700 in supercharged trim.

2023 Lamborghini Huracán Sterrato
When out on the lawn, there arose such a clatter.

It's hard to imagine a better supercar for drifting around The North Pole. Sure, it's a Lamborghini stoked with a 601 horsepower 5.2-liter V10 that clicks 0-60 mph in 3.4 seconds and touches 160 mph, but all-wheel-drive and elevated ride height lay claim to the "first all-terrain sports car". It's the slowest Lamborghini since the LM002 off-roader due to its multi-terrain tires, but still swift enough to knock Santa's hat back.

CASEY WILLIAMS
Auto Reviews

MagneRide dampers and a strong lightweight chassis enhance handling.

Mrs. Clause shall clinch her apron when she inhales the features. There's a digital inclinometer with pitch/roll indicator, aluminum front underbody protection, roof air intake to stay above sand/snow, and drive configurator with STRADA, SPORT, and RALLY modes. Santa can call on Amazon Alexa to control climate and navigation while a drive recorder allows him to evaluate track day performance...including his hearttrate while driving.

Santa must act fast to procure one of 1,499 units. Pricing, not announced, will surely land north of $250,000.

Storm Forward!

never there when I need one.

Right, no pens. Look at this office, files everywhere. Look at that, I sat that file there last year and haven't touched it. I really need to get organized in my office.

No better time to start than the present. We will start with this file on that mystery book, I want to finish. Hmm. I better take a look at this before I file it.

That's a good story. Why haven't I finished it? That's it, that's what's needed, a twist to take us in a new direction. Let me just get this typed in the computer before I forget it.

I'll get this new book finished in no time at all. Boy, I am getting hungry. What did I do with that lettuce sandwich? Kitchen. I was hunting a pen. Here's one.

Will you look at this mess, all these cleaning things in the middle of the floor. Look at the kitchen, cabinets open, refrigerator door open. It looks like I have been robbed.

I have got to get this place cleaned up, close the doors, the fridge. Now let's get the cleaning stuff back where it goes.

Now, doesn't everything look better? There is nothing like making things neater to give a new year prospective. I am still hungry, where's that lettuce sandwich? Here it is. Look here's a coupon on pizza delivery. That's a great deal. Where did I put the phone?

Ring in the New Year With Traditions, Fruits, Vegetables

By Melinda Myers

Start your New Year with a bit of luck and nutritious eating. Try a few of these food-related traditions and then plan on growing a few of your own to enjoy.

Eating grapes on New Year's Eve is a Mexican food tradition. One grape is eaten with each stroke of midnight and is believed to lead to prosperity in the year ahead. Grapes are low in saturated fats and relatively high in vitamins C and K.

If space allows, grow your own grapes in a sunny location on decorative arbors and trellises. Use these as a decorative and edible entryway to the garden, as screening, or to provide shade. Plan for the squirrels and birds that may join you during harvest season.

In the southern United States, black-eyed peas have long been part of the New Year's celebration. Many people believe the swelling of the peas as they cook represents prosperity, while others think their shape resembles coins.

Southern peas are warm-weather plants and should not be planted until the soil is warm and toasty, preferably above 65 degrees. Multiple plantings can be made at three-week intervals to have fresh peas all summer and fall. Space the seeds about two inches apart down the row. The rows should be three to four feet apart.

Southern peas are one vegetable that doesn't require pampering. They thrive in summer heat and stand up to the dry weather without a complaint. Most selections require 50-55 days from planting until harvest in the green pea stage. If dried peas are desired, 65-75 days are needed.

Elevate the fun of future New Year's celebrations by growing your own. Plant black-eyed peas in a sunny spot in your garden. Wait for the soil to warm to begin planting the seeds. Make several plantings to have fresh peas all summer long. Most varieties are ready to harvest fresh in 50 to 55 days. Allow some of them to mature on the plant. These are usually ready to harvest in 65 to 75 days. Pull and hang the plants in a warm location to dry. Then shell and store the black-eyed peas for your winter and New Year's meal.

Increase your good luck and prosperity by including a cabbage dish. This German, Irish, and U.S. tradition is tied to the fact that cabbage leaves resemble money, promoting personal wealth.

You can start your own cabbage plants from seeds or purchase transplants from your favorite garden center. Plant cabbage in the garden in spring for an early summer harvest or plant in mid-summer for a fall harvest. Preserve your cabbage by quartering, blanching, and freezing some for use in your favorite cabbage dishes and New Year's celebration.

Andrew Luck Chose His Family Over the Game

BRIAN HOWEY
Howey Political Report

It's been a little more than three years since Andrew Luck shocked the wide, wide world of sports when he retired as a 29-year-old star seemingly at the top of his game two weeks before the season was to begin.

What is clear is that the Indianapolis Colts have been plunged into quarterback purgatory, cycling through a series of retreads (Philip Rivers, Matt Ryan now Nick Foles) along with flailing upstarts (Jacoby Brissett, Carson Wentz and Sam Ehlinger) in what should have been the middle of a three-decade period of excellence that began in 1998 with Peyton Manning.

Luck resurfaced this past month in an ESPN interview with Seth Wickersham and acknowledged the predicament he created for the Colts. In 2012, the team cut Manning, who would go on to play in two more Super Bowls with the Denver Broncos, for what appeared to be limitless potential with Luck, who they drafted No. 1 that year.

"I regret the timing of when I retired," Luck said. In retrospect, Wickersham writes, Luck recently admitted to students at a Q&A event that he wished he would've told the Colts immediately following the 2018 season that he intended to hang up the cleats in his prime. Luck had thrown 39 TDs in 2018 and was named the NFL's Comeback Player of the Year.

Which, deep down, that had been the Luck family's M.O. At his Ubben Lecture at DePauw University in April 2015, Luck said that while his former NFL quarterback father never forced the game on him, "The only rule in our family was if you started a season in whatever sport, you had to finish that season. There was no quitting halfway, which I'm thankful for."

But it was more complicated than that. "I understood myself best as a quarterback," Luck explained to Wickersham. "I felt no understanding of other parts of myself at all. To play quarterback, you're not allowed to worry about anything except the task at hand. And that seeps into other areas of life. It's not the healthiest way to live."

Nor is being a collegiate or pro quarterback in a sport that is, essentially, the American version of Roman gladiators.

For most of us, being chased by a 300-pound defensive end running at you with 4.6 speed and getting smashed to the turf would be a life-altering event.

For a pro QB, it's a way of life. And when Luck arrived in Indy, he seemed to relish that notion, often complimenting defenders for their hard hits.

I was in the Lucas Oil Stadium stands on Nov. 8, 2015 when Luck faced off against Manning in what would be the latter's final game in Indy. Luck passed for two TDs and drove the 4-5 Colts down the field in the final minutes, setting up a 55-yard Adam Vinatieri field goal for a 27-24 upset over the undefeated Broncos. But this game took a toll, with a late hit lacerating one of Luck's kidneys and tearing his abdominal muscle.

For most of us, peeing blood would bring about an immediate lifestyle change.

What we didn't understand about Andrew Luck is that he was literally living out Henry David Thoreau's classic observation: "The mass of men lead lives of quiet desperation." Here was Luck facing a rebellion on the homefront with his wife preparing to leave. "There were some things that when I looked in the mirror, I did not like about myself. I was self-absorbed, withdrawn, in pain, and feeling pressure," Luck told Wickersham.

He broached that topic during his DePauw lecture.

"I think for leadership to be effective it has to be within your own personality," Luck stated, adding, "you'll be exposed as a fraud and a phony if it's not and it won't come off as genuine."

So Andrew Luck listened to his body, and his wife, and abruptly left the game. His career had been on a Hall of Fame trajectory, and Colt fans were salivating over dreams of a future two or three Super Bowls and titles. The way he departed has thus, plunged the team into the kind of chaos that has them at 4-9-1 with few good QB options moving forward.

He likely won't be enshrined in the team's "Ring of Honor," though owner Jim Irsay let Luck keep nearly $25 million in signing bonuses. He won't make it into the Hall of Fame at Canton.

"I think in the NFL one of the obstacles is just keeping your head on straight, keeping your eyes on the prize, in a sense," Luck said at DePauw. "The media machine is so big and you do live in somewhat of a fishbowl that I think you could easily get astray."

At his retirement press conference, Luck explained, "For the last four years or so, I've been in this cycle of injury, pain, rehab, injury, pain, rehab, and it's been unceasing, unrelenting, both in-season and offseason, and I felt stuck in it. The only way I see out is to no longer play football. I've come to the proverbial fork in the road, and I made a vow to myself that if I ever did again, I'd choose me, in a sense."

This quarterback chose his family over the game.

Singer and musician Terry Wariner, a 1978 Noblesville High School graduate -- and younger brother of country music singer and songwriter Steve Wariner -- will perform on New Year's Eve beginning at 8 p.m.

"It's a special treat for us to have him back and his friends back at the Post," Morris said.

Terry Wariner on drums and vocals will be joined by guitarist and vocalist Joe Hampton, who performed with singer-songwriter Merle Haggard "back in the day," Terry Wariner said. Hampton's wife, Kelly, plays bass and sings, and their daughter, Sara Jo, sings harmony, and special guest Jason Salyers plays guitar and sings vocals. The Hamptons will travel from Williamsburg, Ky.

"We love doing classic country with some southern class rock," Terry Wariner said. "We may have a jam at the end of the night with a couple of guests."

Terry Wariner, who was born at Riverview Hospital and now lives in Russell Springs, Ky., said he loves Noblesville and returning to see family and friends. "I saw a lot of classmates last year," said Terry, who performed at the Legion's 2021 New Year's Eve party.

His dad, the late Roy Wariner (who died in July 2017 at age 88), was a big music influence. "He loved classic country. He had a band in Noblesville in the 1950s and '60s," Terry Wariner said.

At age 17, Terry (the youngest of six siblings) performed with Grand Ole Opry star Bob Luman and performed at the Opry with Luman in 1978. Terry Wariner has been performing with his brother, Steve Wariner, for more than 40 years and has also been performing at the Opry for more than 40 years. Terry played the Opry's 97th birthday celebration in October.

"One thing I'm really proud of is I played drums on Steve's Grammy Award-winning 2009 album, "My Tribute to Chet Atkins." (Steve Wariner, who was discovered by and performed with country music singer Dottie West, also played bass guitar in Atkins' band, and Atkins, "Mr. Guitar," became Steve Wariner's mentor. Steve Noel Wariner was born in Noblesville on Christmas Day in 1954 and was one of the most popular artists in the 1980s, with 10 No. 1 singles.) There's a video on Steve's Facebook page posted earlier this month of Terry playing drums with Steve singing "Midnight Fire" on "Hee Haw" in 1984. Terry also showed a photo snapped of him and his brother smiling and visiting with singer-songwriter Garth Brooks during Steve's induction into the Musicians Hall of Fame in Nashville.

home -- easily is measured in the thousands and thousands of dollars.

There's more. Unlike other places, we ask hard questions and report those answers to you. We don't pass along the typical fluff and wire copy that's so old by the time it gets to you it's not even listed on your phone's news feed anymore. Our folks -- including the best columnists this side of the White River -- give you news and information you're not going to get anywhere else.

Bragging? Absolutely not. We couldn't do any of it without you . . . and you . . . and you . . .

Before The Times hits that 120th birthday, we have more to do. We are already hard at work making some changes for 2023 -- including going to a calendar-year subscription billing cycle (with a reader-friendly incentive we think you'll love) and making some improvements to our daily pages.

Folks, it's been a hell of a run. We're humbled by your support.

To our advertisers, we can't say thank you enough. Without you, there is no Noblesville Times. Subscriptions are wonderful, but advertising pays the bills. We appreciate your support and your business so very, very much!

And to the businesses who don't advertise -- I hope that 2023 changes that. I get it that many of you think the newspaper world is either dead or on life-support. But I would ask you to consider the following: How many newspapers and magazines are there in Hamilton County? Four? Five? Does that sound like a dying duck to you? And please remember that we're not trying to sell you what we don't have. Because what we DO HAVE is thousands of readers who aren't a good demographic, they are a GREAT demographic. Why not help your business and reach out to them? We're happy to make that happen! And if you are interested and don't hear from us, let me know. I'd be honored to personally handle your business!

OK, commercial's over. Now back to our regular programming.

To everyone, I'd like to end these ramblings with a quote from that wonderful TV character Gomer Pyle -- thank you, thank you, thank you!

older who would get a kick out of seeing their name in the newspaper, pass that information along to me. I'll recognize them in a column and add them to the list. (You can even add yourself, if you want!)

I seem to get the most new additions in January, after I run the whole list at New Year's, but feel free to add a name at any time during the year whenever someone turns 90.

The current list of Notable Nineties appears below. If you think it's shorter this year, you're right. I've been depending on the people who send me a name to let me know when that Notable Ninety has passed away, but lately I've been discovering that usually doesn't happen.

I went through the list and tried to update it for this column. Hopefully, I didn't eliminate anyone who should still be on it. If any corrections need to be made, please let me know.

Also, let me know if someone has graduated to being a Sensational Centenarian (100 years old or older.) I'd like to acknowledge that, too.

Happy New Year to everyone, especially to our Notable Nineties!

I decided that I would call fellow golfer and friend, Ray, to join me. Ray was like me. He didn't want to intrude on the other couples. Ten years my senior, Ray wasn't confident anymore driving on snowy roads at night, so opted to stay home.

"Get out of your pajamas, Ray!" I commanded. "I'll be at your place in 20 minutes."

Ray is Filipino. He is a Renaissance man, actually. As a retired civil engineer for an international engineering firm, Ray has been stationed in no less than 13 nations. He speaks seven languages fluently. He plays golf, and has taught himself how to play piano, both classical and jazz.

He could retire to any warm climate in the world, but chose Indiana simply because he discovered he could get a tee time in 20 minutes, instead of the customary two weeks required in his adopted California home.

No sooner than Ray and I settled in at the long table reserved for David's friends that I noticed something unusual on the dance floor. A young professional, maybe just a college student, was spinning and gyrating to the rocking sounds of David's music. What made this young man distinctive was that he was not only cutting a rug, he was cutting large swaths of it.

This man was huge! Not athletic huge, but lumpy huge. I marveled at his desire to be on the floor at the risk of mockery.

I too was heavy at that age, and even though I wanted to be one of the dancers having fun, I worried that instead of being Gene Kelly I was more likely to dance like Chris Farley. So, did I ever even try?

Fat chance.

A little bit after ringing in the new year, the large man left with no less than the most beautiful woman in the club on his arm. What confidence, I thought!

It was then that my attention turned to Ray. I never knew Ray to be a dancer, but all night long, he accepted offer after offer from lovely women asking him to join him on the dance floor. Ray was terrific. He spun. He twirled. His feet were magic!

Again, I was stunned. I mentioned to Ray on the way home that I never realized he was such a good dancer.

"I didn't used to be," Ray admitted. "I used to be awkward and timid. But I decided that I didn't want to feel that way again, and I took two years of dance lessons."

I learned something that night: 1) If you love what you're doing, do it without worrying what others may think of you. The rewards far outweigh the potential of ridicule; 2) When pursuing a passion, be willing to learn from others. Not everything comes naturally to us. We miss out on so much fun believing there is no payoff for hard work.

Seems like two valuable lessons entering the new year! Happy New Year!
