⇒ FACES of HAMILTON COUNTY

What makes Fulton Mraz smile? "I'm a Special Olympics (gold medal winner) for the 100-meter dash," said the 24-year-old Cicero resident. "I have autism," said the 2018 graduate of Hamilton Heights High School. "Right now, we're focusing on helping other people and trying to do entertainment for other people ... like singing and writing some songs." He loves to entertain. He was found in July at the Hamilton County 4-H Fair, sporting dark sunglasses and a blackT-shirt printed with "Subscribe" to his YouTube channel, "Mr. Fulton Mraz," for which he has more than 2,000 subscribers. Earlier this year, he competed in Noblesville's Got Talent in downtown Noblesville and Cicero's Got Talent. He also competed a previous year at the 4-H Youth Talent Show during the Hamilton County 4-H Fair. He is the son of Emily and Tony Mraz. What else? "I have a job at Texas Roadhouse in Carmel ... I do the silverware." His mom takes him to work. "After high school, I looked for opportunities to volunteer and after that I went to college ... at Limitless (Transition Program) for special needs ... It helps people get jobs and opportunities." The most fun activity at the Fair? "Meeting a lot of people and having fun." He was watching the Swine Show, watching for his friend, Liam, from his neighborhood. He said, "This perfect day makes me smile." Look for Hamilton County 4-H Fair results in a special online section in upcoming editions this month in

1. Iguanas and Snakes

You can imagine the shock Crystal Collins of Hollywood, FL had when her husband discovered an iguana in a toilet bowl in their home recently. "We both looked at each other like what are we going to do. I joked about burning the house down. Neither of us do lizards." They wound up calling a friend to come over and help get rid of the creature. Meanwhile, in Tucson, AZ, Michelle Lespron had a similar shock when she returned from vacation: she lifted the lid of her toilet and found a black and pink coachwhip snake. "I slammed the lid back down right away when I saw it," she told reporters. Michelle wasted no time in contacting a snake wrangler who explained that coachwhip snakes aren't poisonous but can get aggressive.

BETSY REASON From The Editor's Desk... Count doesn't mind sharing her age with anybody who asks. The 70-

vear member of the First Presbyterian Church in Noblesville -- who can be found this Saturday volunteering at the church's eighth annual Red Geranium Artisan Market -- is 99 years old.

She loves to play Euchre, take walks and do good with the ladies of her church.

LeCount especially likes to volunteer each year at the Presbyterian Women Bake Sale during the church's Red Geranium Market.

She likes working the cash box.

"I count money," she said. When she makes change, she counts the money aloud to her customers. "You know you're getting the right change, and I know I'm giving it to you," she

Being at the bake sale, LeCount said, "I enjoy seeing my friends, enjoy taking their money, and I enjoy counting it and seeing how much we make. I enjoy being with my friends and seeing a lot of my friends I haven't seen for a while ... and talking with them. I love them. I love my church." (Her friend Gigi Nash, 93, has been alongside her for years, I'm told.)

Saturday's market is 9 a.m. to 3 p.m. and features more than 50 juried artisan booths, a stage with live entertainment, food and, of course, the bake sale. All proceeds fund church mission projects.

LeCount has been involved in the Noblesville church since 1953 and has volunteered at the church rummage sales and bake sales for the past 55 years, since 1968.

"I was in charge of the rummage sales for years, and I started the bake sales," she

LeCount baked chocolate chip and peanut butter cookies, brownies, and apple and cherry pies for many, many bake sales. "I baked a lot," she said, although LeCount "wasn't much for baking cakes."

She baked for many years. "At first, I did every year, then in later years, I hadn't," she said. "I just donate money."

For some events, she made banana bread but doesn't do much cooking any more. "When you're 99 years old, you're not supposed to. But I do keep busy. Tomorrow, my friends are picking me up at 11 a.m., and going to play Euchre

Noblesville's Lost Log Cabin

PAULA DUNN From Time to Thyme

If you've lived in this area as long as I have, I don't have to tell you today's Noblesville is nothing like the city I knew growing up here in the 1960s and '70s. I used to be comforted by the thought that at least I was surrounded by familiar buildings, but even that's not as true as it once was.

It's a little scary to think how many iconic Noblesville landmarks have disappeared in just the last 30 years — the Firestone building, the Carnegie library, the ABC Drive-In, the Noblesville Milling Company's concrete silos and wooden grain elevators . . .

I could keep going, but I want to stop and focus on one of those lost landmarks that I've never featured in this column before, Forest Park's log cabin.

The cabin was said to have been built in the 1860s by a German immigrant named William "Billy" Warnica. (A couple of articles written around the time the cabin was moved to the park spell the name "Warnaca," but based on older newspaper items, I believe "Warnica" is correct.)

Forest Park was only a year old in 1927 when members of the park board found the cabin on the George Webster farm, near the intersection of 209th Street/Carrigan Road and Hague Road in the rural neighborhood known as "Stringtown."

The board members, Dr. Earl Brooks, Will Hayes and Samuel Mott, ponied up $50 of their own money to buy the building, but they had to depend on donations of money, material and labor to restore it — and it did need a lot of work.

Although the cabin's poplar walls were sound, the roof had fallen in and had to be replaced. A new foundation, a new chimney and a fireplace were also needed.

Members of the local American Legion post came to the rescue. They raised the money to pay for the roof and for moving the dismantled cabin to its new location on the west edge of the park, near the intersection of the park's two main drives. They also helped reassemble the cabin.

The fully restored "Cabin Club House," as it was originally called, was dedicated June 9, 1929 in a ceremony attended by several hundred people.

At the time of the dedication. the upper floor contained 15 double bunks for overnight stays. The lower floor was furnished with rustic furniture and boasted a fully equipped kitchen with service for 30 ("Forest Park" was printed on every

Letters

Writer Says Library Banning Books

Dear Editor, In the book "Palm Sunday," Kurt Vonnegut writes, "Whenever ideas are squashed in this country, literate lovers of the American experiment write careful and intricate explanations of why all ideas must be allowed to live. It is time for them to realize that they are attempting to explain America at its bravest and most optimistic to orangutans.

Hoosier-born Vonnegut was no stranger to book bans during his career. "Slaughterhouse-Five," his most well-known novel, has been challenged, removed, burned and banned from 1975 through the 2010s. A satirical sci-fi novel, people found Slaughterhouse offensive due to scenes involving sex, foul language, the acknowledgment of homosexuality, as well as its strong anti-war themes.

Now the bans have come to Central Indiana. Hamilton East Public Library (HEPL) board members will call this a "book-moving" crusade, as the teen sections in Noblesville and Fishers now resemble book ghost towns.

Another famous Hoosier author, John Green, is appalled at the removal of "The Fault in Our Stars," a book written for teens with teen protagonists. Has the board read it? I doubt it.

Book bans and removals are a sad attempt at adults who feel threatened by people who don't think like them to hold onto the power they fear is disappearing. What is actually happening is an attempt at equality.

You have LGBTQIA neighbors. Black co-workers. Non-Christian family members. Drag queens exist. Let their perspectives be represented.

As a syndicated grammar columnist, I don't agree with any of the HEPL board's reasoning or perspectives on removing books from the library. Censorship has no place in the public library. It's a thinly veiled attempt at suppressing the public's First Amendment rights.

The HEPL board is wasting Hamilton County tax dollar money by combing through books to flag them for suspicious perspectives. I'm a proud Noblesville resident but ashamed of the HEPL board. We can't let this continue to happen.

Respectfully, Curtis Honeycutt AKA Grammar Guy Noblesville

ABA In Indiana At Risk

Founder Sherry Michael and her team want to bring awareness that the office of FSSA and Office of Medicaid Policy and Planning (OMPP) is working on cutting Reimbursement rates for ABA Providers in the State of Indiana so low that at least 90% will be out of business in a few months.

On August 8th, 2023 OMPP proposed cutting reimbursements rates so low that all 84 providers in the meeting were concerned they would go out of business because the new proposed rates are much lower than what it cost to do business. OMPP does not understand what ABA Providers do.

Indiana Medicaid has just released proposed insurance rates that will take effect in 2024. The proposed rates are dramatically below the current average rate. If the proposed rates take effect, they are likely to result in many families no longer having access to ABA services.

With at least 1 in 59 children diagnosed with autism each year, primarily in the African American, Hispanic, and Indian communities, Indiana needs all the funding and support it can get. Our centers help patients with autism live productive lives as men and women. From Occupational/Speech Therapy to Center-Based, we provide the best services possible.

AFFORDABLE DENTURES & IMPLANTS[®]

This is a setback that will defer their progression and leave them at risk. This news has left many parents scared, upset, and uncertain that their children will soon lose services they need. With inflation on the rise and families struggling to make ends meet, the last thing we need is for cuts that will decide the future of patients who are on the spectrum.

We are asking you to please share this with as many connections as you have. If you have any questions or need more information about this matter please email Sherry Michael at sherry@appliedbehaviorcenter.org. You can also reach her by phone at (317) 432-7408

Play-It-Safe Tips To Protect Young Athletes' Feet And Ankles

(StatePoint) In today's competitive youth sports landscape, injuries are common, and when they do occur, young athletes are often pressured to play through the pain.

"The back-to-school season is prime time for foot and ankle injuries from fall sports like soccer, football and cross country," says Richard Baker, DPM, FACFAS, a foot and ankle surgeon and Fellow Member of the American College of Foot and Ankle Surgeons (ACFAS). "Fortunately, there are many steps parents, coaches and young athletes can take to prevent injuries from occurring in the first place and to discourage kids from playing through pain."

Here are eight play-itsafe tips from the foot and ankle surgeon members of ACFAS to help prevent injuries and to treat them properly when they do occur.

1. Get a pre-season checkup. A pre-season medical evaluation can help identify whether your child could possibly benefit from using an orthotic or wearing a supportive ankle brace while playing. This is especially important for those with previous sprains and injuries.

2. Start the season with new shoes. Old shoes can wear down and become uneven, causing the ankle to tilt. And, as your child's feet may have grown between seasons, their old shoes may not fit. The smart move is to replace athletic shoes at the start of each season. While children under 10 should wear all-purpose sports shoes, older youth athletes should wear sport-specific footwear.

3. Train for the season. It's important that your child's feet and ankles are accustomed to the level of activity required for the sport. Adequate conditioning in the off-season can help maintain a player's ability to meet these demands, reducing their risk of injury and improving their performance during the season.

4. Encourage warmup exercises. Calf stretches and light jogging before competition help warm up ligaments and blood vessels, reducing injury risk.

5. Check fields for dips, divots and holes. Ninety percent of ankle sprains are due to poor playing conditions. That's why some surgeons recommend walking the field, especially in non-professional settings like public parks, looking for spots that could catch a player's foot. Alert coaching officials to any irregularities.

6. Watch their technique. A difference in the way your child is moving is often a tell-tale sign that something is wrong. Playing with pain is never a winning strategy so encourage kids to be honest about pain or discomfort.

7. Be mindful of other physical activities. Your child doesn't need to be involved in a formalized athletic program to be vulnerable to sports-related injuries. Foot and ankle surgeons warn of common injuries like plantar fasciitis, bone spurs, fractures and Achilles tendonitis due to repetitive, forceful motions, which can occur in activities such as skateboarding. When skateboarding or engaged in other non-formal activities, always wear protective gear, including supportive shoes, and seek treatment when there is pain or injury.

8. Remember RICE. Often, an injured foot or ankle can be treated with rest, ice, compression and elevation. Those with foot or ankle pain should take a break from playing and allow time for recovery. If pain persists, something more serious may be happening, such as cartilage injuries or broken bones in the foot. Consult a foot and ankle surgeon for a complete evaluation, proper diagnosis and treatment plan. The sooner rehabilitation starts, the sooner your child can safely get back into the game.

She lives with her son and his family who have a driveway that she walks. "Sometimes I take a book with me, and I stop and maybe read a few pages. I sit down on my walker and rest a little bit and read a little bit."

She married her husband, Corlyss "Cory" LcCount (who was in the military for two years) on Nov. 15, 1945, in Fort Wayne. "How I got here, my husband was a coach, and he came here as the b-team basketball coach and moved up to varsity and was varsity for several years. a county museum. To that end, the Hamilton County Museum Association was organized to provide funds for the museum's maintenance. Members paid annual dues of $1.00, and promised to attempt to recruit one new member during the year.

The museum only lasted a short time, but the cabin itself remained a popular feature of the park for nearly 70 years. Countless meetings, pitch-ins, reunions, church classes and scout outings were held in it.

The community responded and the newly restored cabin was rededicated July 5, 1976, during the American Bicentennial celebration.

Twenty-some years later, the aging structure was again in need of major work. This time, however, efforts to raise funds for the cabin's preservation failed, even though the city had managed to get it placed on the State Register of Historic Sites and Structures in 1990.

Noblesville's historic old log cabin was demolished in 1997 — and the city lost another little piece of its soul.

AFFORDABLE DENTURES & IMPLANTS®

Life-changing dental implant solutions at an affordable price

The new Affordable Dentures & Implants practice, located at 8690 E 96th Street in Fishers, offers patients a variety of tooth replacement options - at an affordable price - to create a new, natural smile that not only looks great, but restores a patient's chewing ability, helps prevent bone loss, and transforms a patient's confidence to smile again.

Affordable Dentures & Implants offers dental implant procedures that can restore the look, feel and function of a patient's teeth.

Dental implants provide many benefits for denture wearers. Denture wearers often experience challenges eating, talking, and interacting with others, and find their dentures to be less secure than natural teeth.

Dental implants help secure a patient's denture, so the patient does not experience these issues.

An Affordable Dentures & Implants

The advantages of dental implants include:

- Protection of Existing Teeth and Bone Structure: A dental implant takes the place of a missing tooth. The dental implant is attached directly to the jaw. As a result, it prevents any remaining teeth from shifting and causing damage or bone loss.
- Better Feel and Function: If a patient has been missing teeth for a while, they often share how much of an inconvenience it is in their daily life--especially when it comes to eating. A dental implant allows patients to eat the foods they once enjoyed.
- Restored Confidence: Teeth affect how a patient speaks and smiles, which also affects their sense of confidence. Dental implant surgery restores teeth. In turn, patients may find it easier to smile for pictures, and communicate with friends and loved ones.
