Three Things You Should Know

1 U.S. Secretary of Agriculture Brooke L. Rollins recently announced the suspension of live cattle, horse and bison imports through U.S. ports of entry along the southern border because of the continued and rapid northward spread of New World Screwworm in Mexico, effective immediately. NWS has been recently detected in remote farms with minimal cattle movement as far north as Oaxaca and Veracruz, about 700 miles away from the U.S. border.

2 Hoosiers like to drive! According to our friends at Jason Stone Injury Lawyers (<https://stoneinjurylawyers.com>), Indiana drivers average over 15,000 miles per registered vehicle, the third-highest in the nation. Delaware racked up 21,127 miles per registered vehicle, the highest in the nation. Mississippi is next at 17,379 miles annually. That kind of mileage doesn't come without consequences. More time on the road means faster wear and tear, higher maintenance costs, and a greater risk of breakdowns and accidents.

PAULA DUNN
From Time to Thyme

Normally when I do a reader column, I have comments from several people, but David Sutton sent an email that was so full of interesting details, it easily filled an entire column by itself.

David began by referring to my recent stories of celebrity visits — and alleged visits — to Hamilton County.

He brought up a Nov. 29, 1956 Noblesville Daily Ledger article that claimed Elvis Presley had been in Noblesville that morning.

If that sounds familiar, it may be because I wrote about this incident in 2018.

The Ledger treated the story as if it were legitimate, but I seriously doubt that Elvis really popped into the local Phillips 66 gas station to get his windshield wiper blades replaced before he ate breakfast at the Uptown Café.

Back in 2018, I was unable to get an exact fix on Presley's location on Nov. 29, 1956, but I found nothing that led me to believe "the King" was anywhere near here.

Perhaps the most significant argument against the visitor being the real McCoy is the fact that the used wiper blades, which were later displayed at the gas station, have quietly disappeared.

I doubt that would have happened had they belonged to the real Presley.

(Nevertheless, I agree with David's suggestion that it would be fun for the Uptown to commemorate the anniversary of this alleged visit by serving peanut butter and banana sandwiches.)

David also wondered about the whereabouts of another celebrity artifact, a L'eggs "eggshell." (Remember L'eggs pantyhose? They originally came in plastic egg-shaped containers.)

According to David, Phil Donahue and his wife, Marlo Thomas, attended the 1992 wedding of Ryan White's mother, Jeanne White, to Roy Ginder, Jr. (Donahue had become a close friend of the Whites during Ryan's struggle with AIDS.)

On the way to the wedding, Marlo needed a new pair of pantyhose, so the couple stopped at Wheeler's restaurant. (Today, it's Mercantile 37.) Marlo bought a pair of L'eggs, and put them on in the ladies' restroom.

OK, SO THE

scuttlebutt is that Trump is playing with the idea of a third term. But is he really? With Donald J. Trump, who knows? I truly believe half the drivelt that comes out of his mouth he means, half is just messing with the Democrats and half is made up malarkey. What? The math doesn't add up? Hey, neither does the math on our property taxes. Complain to Mike Braun!

On this third term, let me go on record that I would be against it. But before we get into that, how about if we slow the roll on the screamers who are saying Trump is trying to establish a monarchy instead of a republic? First off, of the 45 men who have held the highest office in the land, only 14 have served since the establishment of the 22nd Amendment outlawing a third term. It's not exactly like the idea of a third term is foreign to our history.

No, my opposition has nothing to do with the Trumpers or the Never-Trumpers. It's all about him being born June 14, 1946. By the time this term ends, he'll be 82. A third term would put him in office when he's four years away from 90.

No thanks.

Like him, love him, hate him or don't care – everyone watched Joe Biden mentally and physically sink lower and lower during his term. What's the old saying in sports? The only one undefeated is Father Time.

We've all seen the before / after pictures of presidents. There's no question how much that office ages a person. I'd hate to see what it would do to someone in their mid-80s.

Oh, and one more thing for you die-hard Trump fans.

Beverly Whelchel

January 3, 1930 - April 9, 2025

Beverly Whelchel died April 9, 2025, at the age of 95. She was born January 3, 1930, in Ferndale, Michigan, the only child of Fred D. and Virginia Mae Williams. She was predeceased by husbands Robert Remmetter, Darrell (Dee) Fairborn, and Ralph (Sam) Whelchel. She is survived by her children, Debbie Robert (Marty), Mark Remmetter (Lynn), and Laurie Drummond (the late Keith Drummond); by her grandchildren, Katie Tseng (Robert), Daniel Robert (Patty), Kelly Keller (Matt), Joshua Drummond (Erin), Maria Drummond (Taylor), and Corie Remmetter; and by great grandchildren, Sophia and Zoe Tseng, Martin and Benjamin Robert, Cece and Jilly Keller, and Abigail Drummond.

Bev spent her early years in Oden, Indiana, surrounded by loving relatives on both sides. The family moved to Indianapolis when her father took a job with Standard Grocery. She attended Shortridge High School. In 1961 Bev moved again, this time with her husband and children, to Fishers, Indiana, where she spent the next 57 years of her life. She held various jobs during that period, including a long tenure with A&P grocery stores. This job in particular helped her provide for her children when she became a single mother. After retiring from A&P she worked for and also volunteered at the Fishers Post 470 of the American Legion, where she had been a member of the Auxiliary for many years. Bev spent the last seven years of her life in Evanston, Illinois, living with her daughter Debbie and son-in-law Marty, and where she greatly enjoyed being loved and cared for, especially after living alone for many years.

Bev's children were the joy of her life. She nurtured, guided and supported them through the ups and downs of life. When the grandchildren and great grands came, Grandma Bev loved them and their visits, and always looked forward to spoiling them with candy and treats.

Bev had many friends whom she treasured. During the last years of her life a favorite pastime was sitting on the porch, enjoying the weather, watching the children play at the school across the street, and visiting with neighbors who would stop by to chat. She always had dog treats for the four-footed neighbors, many of whom would pull their owners up to the porch if they saw her sitting outside.

Bev's life had its share of sorrows, but conversations with "the Guy upstairs" helped her find peace and direction, and she often told the story about how God let her know it was time to move to Evanston. She had a small figurine of a little sheep which she kept on a shelf near her chair. It served as a reminder that she was one of God's lambs.

A graveside service will be held May 29 at 3pm in Oaklawn Memorial Gardens- Washington Cemetery, 9700 Allisonville Road, Indianapolis.

The Need for Christian Community

BONNIE ZICKGRAF
Learning the Journey

This week's offering is a reflection for Community of Faith United Methodist Church, Davenport, Fla. – an analysis of a sermon by Pastor Chris Jones, May 16, 2020

In case you missed it, here are the highlights of the pastor's message this past weekend as he continued in the series called, "Credo: I Believe" (a review of The Apostles Creed) The focus this weekend was on the phrase: "...I believe in the holy catholic church, the communion of saints..."

The term "catholic" refers to one universal church; a global and intergalactic church." The phrase "communion of saints" refers to the spiritual union of the members of the Christian Church.

The phrase "living and the dead" denotes those who are in Heaven.

Pastor's Question: If you are Christian do you have to be part of the church?

Short answer = YES! To take faith seriously, you must be part of a church.

The message was not meant to imply:

That people are under any obligation to join our church or our Christian faith (not obligatory).

That we will lose our salvation if we do not go to church (we will not).

That we must stay in a church with "toxic leaders" (No! Find a healthy church!).

But the pastor had some exceptionally good reasons WHY we should be part of the church. So first, a listing of the reasons indicated by Pastor Chris, followed by additional notes of reflection.

1. God made us for community.

God is the Holy Trinity. He is a community within Himself (Father, Son, Holy Spirit). God designed us NOT to be alone (Genesis 1:27, "So God created human beings in his own image. In the image of God he created them; male and female he created them."

(Note to self) I used to think widowhood or depression was the relentless solitude of being alone, until the isolation of corona virus. I miss the contact with other humans. No joining hands in prayer, no hugs, smiles that are now hidden behind masks, not even a hand on the shoulder. People passing by do not look at each other anymore. I move to the other side of the street in fear of someone sneezing in my direction, Heaven forbid! I cannot even complain about other drivers on the road because I am not supposed to go anywhere and, even if I did, I hear there is no traffic! I have more empathy now for those in prison by themselves (behind bars or just within their own closed doors or hurting hearts).

I am thankful at least I can go outside. And someday, we will be able to go to church again! We need fellow believers to care, share, flourish, and grow. We need community to avoid the void! I miss Children's Church and hearing the kids laugh and dance and even whine! I miss my fellow man and the world I used to live in. That is how I know God made us for community. It's in our DNA and I long for it all: the good, the bad, the ugly, the "all of life" that this life has to offer. I pray for community again.

2. Christianity is not a solo affair. It is a team sport.

(1 Corinthians 12: 20-21, 20"Yes, there are many parts, but only one body." 21"The eye can never say to the hand, 'I don't need you.' The head can't say to the feet, 'I don't need you.'"

Yes, I was as shocked as you that Pastor C. never played for the Duke Blue Devils (but with a name like that, it may have been prohibited in his field of seminary studies!). He could not play FOR the devils now, could he?!

(Note to self) We cannot be Christian unless we follow Jesus. Right there is the initial partnership and makes us a duo. In fact, since (in Methodism at least) the Godhead is a Trinity, then our partnership with God becomes a quadruplet. Jesus is our Coach. He always needed a team of disciples. We are His team of today, of the "right now." Go Team Jesus! Jesus, I am so glad You picked us to be on Your team! We will help You build God's team!

3. All of us have a part to play in Christ's body.

Before you push too hard for allowing a third term, I have two words that ought to give you pause – Barack Obama.

THE OTHER thing that has flared up recently is Trump and due process. I swear that the national media just looks for things to get the left riled up about. (Of course, Donald doesn't help.)

For what it's worth, if you have not watched the entire clip of his comments please do. I guess everyone is going to read into it what they want, but I think you'll conclude it really wasn't a big deal. Do I believe he meant he's throwing out the Constitution? Absolutely not. Look, if you ask me I would say Trump think he's the smartest guy in the room. Maybe the world. Maybe ever. But if that's correct, he wouldn't be the first U.S. president or even major business CEO to think that. He's just a lot worse at hiding it.

***
THERE WAS one part of that interview that made me laugh. NBC's Kristen Welker, a fairly slanted journalist in my opinion, asked him a fair question about the economy to which Trump said in part: "I think the good parts are the Trump economy and the bad parts are the Biden economy." To be sure, I'm taking that out of context. But it seems clear his intent was to say that most of the good numbers are his and the bad numbers are Biden's.

Reminds me of a well-worn story that every new manager should hear AND remember.

A long-time boss is retiring. His replacement has been named and at the retirement party, the old timer pulls the young guy aside and offers some advice.

"Listen, you'll do fine. Just remember, every business runs into problems now and then. You're a smart guy and you'll figure it out. Thing is, when you hit a wall, I have left three envelopes in the desk. Don't open them now, but if you have absolutely no alternatives, remember they are there."

Time goes by and one day comes that dilemma the old man warned about. Seeing no other alternative, the new boss opens the drawer and pulls out envelope No. 1. He opens it to find a sheet of paper that simply says, "Blame me."

So the new boss blames the old one. Crisis passes and everyone moves on.

Later, a second crisis develops. Nothing the now not-so-new guy tries works. Then he remembers the envelopes. He grabs No. 2 and opens it. "Blame your employees." He does. Crisis passes.

When the third crisis blows up later, and at his wit's end, the boss snatches envelope No. 3. He opens it and when he reads it, his heart sinks.

"Prepare three envelopes." Congrats, Don. You just opened No. 1.

BACK HERE at home, boy are the boobirds coming for Lt. Gov. Micah Beckwith. It almost seems Trumpesque in which every little thing is blown out of proportion. Kind of makes a guy wonder how much friendly fire Beckwith is taking? After all, he works for a governor who made no secret out of the fact that he didn't want Beckwith on the ticket. Also, if Braun continues to shoot himself in the foot repeatedly, will Beckwith be an opponent in '28? Hmmmm.

And lastly, whether you are pro Beckwith, Braun, Trump or Little Bo Peep, how about if we all give a little grace on minor missteps? No, I am not saying to forgive outright lies (like someone who runs on property tax reform and then about faces). But maybe we ought to let the little stuff slide and worry about the big stuff? Lord knows there's enough of the big stuff to go around.

CHARLES G. Dawes was the 30th vice president of the United States, serving from 1925-29 under Calvin Coolidge. Give yourself a gold star in history if you knew that. And if you knew he was descended from William Dawes give yourself an A-PLUS, PLUS, PLUS! You are the star of the class if you knew that William Dawes actually did more on that famous midnight ride than his cohort Paul Revere. William was just a pretty quiet guy about it and Paul was, well, let's just say he was pretty good at self-promoting!

After the celebrities left, an employee retrieved Marlo’s discarded L’eggs container from the wastebasket and the plastic eggshell was put on display in Wheeler’s front window as a memento of the visit.

David thought this story had appeared in the Ledger, but I couldn’t find it. I did, however, find an account of the wedding that tends to suggest there might be some truth to the tale.

An Aug. 4, 1992 Ledger article noted that the two celebrities were a half hour late arriving for the ceremony because they’d mistakenly gone to Elwood instead of Cicero. To get from Elwood to Cicero, they probably would have used State Road 37 and that would have taken them right past Wheeler’s.

David ended his email by disclosing that he’d worked for Judge Edward F. New Jr. as his Probation Officer for several months in 1976.

He noted that at that time the judge did all of his office work in the courtroom rather than his chambers because of “issues” with the Ledger. (Judge New and the Ledger had been at odds pretty much from the get-go and it only got worse after New cited Ledger editor Jim Neal for contempt.)

David said that on several occasions he watched the judge scare the living daylights out of some juvenile offender by telling the boy he was going to be sent to the Boys’ School. New would then instruct the youth to sit down on a courtroom bench and wait for a deputy to take him away.

The young offender was left to squirm until the entire docket was completed, then New would call him back up to the bench, read him the riot act and reverse his decision, sending him home with his parents.

Judge New clearly believed in the “scared straight” approach to juvenile justice.

The four educators were selected to represent different academic levels, with two teachers chosen at the elementary level to reflect the fact that 50% of Noblesville Schools teachers are in elementary schools.

One of this year’s elementary school winners, Taryn Hassler, was further distinguished as the overall Noblesville Schools district winner.

Selection focused on master teachers who excel at putting Noblesville Schools’ mission and vision into action and whose accomplishments align well with the Indiana Department of Education’s state Teacher of the Year criteria.

The winners regularly demonstrate the highest levels of quality instruction for their students and leadership among their peers. They will be honored at a Noblesville Schools recognition dinner in May.

As the overall district honoree, Hassler will also participate in the state Teacher of the Year competition. Noblesville Schools employs approximately 700 teachers.
