Solving a Rubik’s Cube is a challenge for most people. For a team of students from Purdue University’s Elmore Family School of Electrical and Computer Engineering, it became an opportunity to redefine the limits of speed, precision and automation—and officially make history. Meet Purdubik’s Cube — a high-speed robotic system that now holds the Guinness World Record for “Fastest robot to solve a puzzle cube,” clocking in at a jaw-dropping 0.103 seconds. That’s faster than the blink of an eye — and nearly three times faster than the previous official record of 0.305 seconds, set by Mitsubishi Electric engineers in Japan in May 2024. The Purdue team, Junpei Ota, Aden Hurd, Matthew Patrohay, and Alex Berta, has not only shattered that record, but now has the official Guinness certification to prove it.

A 29-year-old Evansville woman with a drug-abuse history who rolled over in bed atop her infant son, asphyxiating him to death, will remain behind bars following successful arguments by Attorney General Todd Rokita’s appeals team to uphold her conviction on neglect charges. At the time of the tragic incident on June 8, 2022, Taylor Smith was in violation of a court order forbidding her to be alone with the 12-day-old child. She also rejected the advice of child welfare officials that she refrain from co-sleeping with the child, especially when under the influence of drugs or alcohol. Smith is serving a 30-year prison sentence on the neglect and drugs charges. The child’s father also pleaded guilty to neglect charges.

Nineteen Names On A Monument

PAULA DUNN
From Time to Thyme

When I was trying to come up with an appropriate topic for a Memorial Day column, for some reason I found my thoughts continually straying to the Vietnam War.

Apparently, my subconscious mind was more on the ball than my conscious mind. It didn’t hit me that April 30 was the 50th anniversary of the fall of Saigon until I caught a reference to that event on television.

I don’t have a direct connection to anyone who served in Vietnam — thankfully, my classmates just missed being old enough for the draft — but the war was, nevertheless, a constant shadow hovering over most of my school years.

I remember too well how badly the conflict divided this country and the poor treatment Vietnam vets often received upon returning home because of those divisions.

On one of my recent trips to Crownland Cemetery, I stopped to read the names of the young men killed in Vietnam on the monument dedicated to Hamilton County’s Gold Star soldiers.

I’ve listed the 19 names below (and added their rank at the time of death, their Hamilton County connection and the year they were killed.)

Lt. Alan Jensen Bardach, Noblesville (1968)

Pfc. Thomas L. Bell, Carmel (1967)

Pfc. Daniel Ellis Biddle, Arcadia (1967)

Pfc. Steven Eugene Clark, Noblesville (1968)

Sp/4 David Coy, Noblesville (1967)

Cpl. Michael Farley, Noblesville (1970)

Pfc. Roy Eldon Freeman, Jr., Sheridan (1966)

Pvt. Lawrence Lee Gordon, Riverwood ((1970)

S/Sgt. James Michael Grant, Noblesville (1969)

Pfc. Gerald Lee Johnson, Sheridan (1968)

Sp/4 Guy Thomas Jones, Jolietville (1968)

Pfc. Michael Howard Lawhon, Noblesville (1969)

Pfc. Kenneth Lindle Oldham, Carmel (1968)

Pvt. Michael Eugene Randall, Noblesville (1968)

Sp/4 Benjamin E. Scolley, Sheridan (1966)

Pvt. Robert Wayne Shelton, Cicero (1970)

S/Sgt. Daniel Lee Terry, Sheridan (1969)

1st Lt. Nelson T. Hicks, Carmel (1974)

Cpl. Charles John Cupp, Noblesville (1968)

It just seemed right to get to know them as more than names etched in stone, so I also looked up their death notices and obituaries.

These are only a few of the interesting details I found . . .

The oldest soldier, Cpl. Cupp, was 26. The youngest, Gordon and Scolley, were only 18.

County OKs $3.5 Million for Urgent Care Center

The County Council and County Commissioners have approved $3.5 million for the creation of an urgent care center in Noblesville. The state-of-the-art facility, to be called the Rely Center, will be located on Aspire Indiana Health’s campus and will address urgent mental health, substance use, and psychiatric crises.

The 23-hour crisis center is the result of a strategic partnership between Riverview Health, the Hamilton County Health Department, the Hamilton County Council on Alcohol & Other Drugs, MindWell Solutions, and Aspire Indiana Health. It was spearheaded by Hamilton County Commissioner Mark Heirbrandt and County Councilor Steve Nation, a retired judge committed to addressing the intersection of mental health and the criminal justice system.

“This center has been a long time coming,” Nation said. “Too many individuals cycling through our courts and jails are there not because they are criminals, but because they are in crisis. The Rely Center offers a new path — one focused on treatment rather than incarceration. I firmly believe this will reduce recidivism, ease the burden on our criminal justice system, and help build a safer and healthier community.”

Currently, Hamilton County residents in mental health crisis are transported to facilities like Community North in Marion County. The Rely Center will allow individuals – both youth and adults - to receive care closer to home. The center will be staffed by a multidisciplinary team of behavioral health and medical professionals who can provide triage, assessment, rapid stabilization, symptom reduction, and observation. Aspire Indiana Health will renovate a portion of its facility on Cumberland Road to accommodate the new center.

“We’re proud to be at the heart of this transformative initiative,” said Antony Sheehan, President & CEO of Aspire Indiana Health. “This is about meeting people where they are — in crisis — and giving them the compassionate care and connections they need to recover. We believe this center will have a profound and lasting impact on the wellbeing of our community.”

The Rely Center will be open to everyone in need — no appointment or referral required. Individuals are encouraged to seek help before reaching a breaking point, much like they would visit an emergency room for a physical health crisis.

“This facility will make a major difference for our local hospitals and emergency departments,” added David Hyatt, President & CEO of Riverview Health. “Right now, ERs are often the default destination for people in crisis, which is not always the best setting for their needs. The Rely Center will provide targeted, expert care and alleviate pressure on emergency services.”

In addition to reducing hospital and jail admissions, the Rely Center is expected to reduce overall response times for law enforcement and emergency personnel, shortening the time it takes them to transport individuals out of county for care. The center will also connect individuals with housing, employment, and other essential supports.

Construction and renovation are under way, with the goal of opening the center in fall 2025.

Put God in Everything

BONNIE ZICKGRAF
Learning the Journey

(original July 10, 2020)
Sometimes my brain and my heart live in grueling and anxious knots.

Last night during a small group meeting, I listened for several hours as we talked about racial tensions in this country. I also listened for hours about how guilty we should feel and how wrong we have been and how terrible and bad this whole world is — from "woe-is-me" to "doomsday."

I finally spoke up and said that my biggest concern is that through all of the sociology books and professors in academia and people with stone hearts and evil minds producing ill-action, that I am concerned because God is rarely talked about in conversation circles that spin round and round and round talking about worldly problems with minimal resolution that should be relegated only to a specific race- again. And no mention of God.

Someone apologized to me about not talking more about God even though this was a church group. I explained no apology was necessary to me, but I did find myself slightly personally offended by one of the remarks about, “... the sprinkling of God in my life , but ...,” followed by lots of reasons why God wasn’t needed in the conversation.

As I went to sleep that night, I found myself waking up every couple of hours feeling guilty that I raised this point in a discussion aimed about racial inequality. But I am convinced and in fact, the Bible says God needs to be center in everything that we do. We need to pray about everything that we do.

I simply shared that I had a difficult time hearing where God fits in any of this from either side. And that upset the applearc. Perhaps I was feeling guilty because I wished I would have had better words to share or more wisdom during those specific moments. Sometimes it’s hard to be silent.

Nonetheless besides a terrible night’s sleep, I found that the meeting outcome permeating my mind often throughout today. So, I prayed with great focus and finally gave my daily burdens over to Jesus.

And then I received a Facebook post from Scott M. Sullivan stating:

“I can’t get past how churches are dropping the baton and passing on the faith to the next generation. The real problem goes to the top! I don’t necessarily mean pastors ... but the problem is about what we place on top of our priorities.

Intellectual hypocrisy ... they don’t seem to believe what they say that they believe ... if Christianity is true then the stakes are higher than what we seem to think they are.

It’s a battlefield and souls are being lost on a daily basis and these are spiritual lives that are being lost.

What is the army of God doing about this? Well, outside the typical Sunday meeting, most churches do little more than get together and have a coffee and donuts.

Donuts are great but how are we equipping the faithful to fight this battle? Most churches don’t offer any training or education to be effective evangelists.

The reality of this battle is a call for action and engagement.

Even atheists notice this lack of concern for souls and they do not respect Christians who do not evangelize.

A challenge: Next time you go to a church service or a talk, ask yourself how well is your church preparing you to save a sick and dying world?

I’m ready for action. Are you?”

This was the very reassurance that I prayed to receive today. I even stated during the meeting that I could not apologize for wanting to bring God into the conversation as part of the resolution to all our problems, regardless of what they are.

I received this message after quiet and focused prayer, taking this burden to the foot of the cross and talking to Jesus about it. He listened and He answered. Why do we not solicit His help more often?

God has been ready for action for quite some time. So now my prayer continues for guidance and the wisdom to bring what we experience today into the context of

The Legacy We Leave

BRANNA (MCCARTY) SHORES
Guest Columnist

With the holiday weekend drawing near, our minds meander toward food, fun, family and friends. Barbeques abound and pool parties are planned. With the sentiments of summer unveiling, it’s often easy to lose sight of the true meaning of this most heralded holiday. While we honor those who fought and died for our freedom, it’s also a day of remembrance for those nearest and dearest that we have loved and lost. Which brings me to the final “finish line,” the epic epilogue, the not-so-fun-damentals of ... a funeral.

I must admit, I don’t fare well with farewells. I am notorious for my adamant adoration for my family and friends. I’m a lover, not a fighter for sure, but ask those close to me how fast I’ll fly into “mama bear mode” when my posse is imperiled. So you can imagine my struggle in grasping grief and loss.

It used to be that funerals were that ominous occurrence we all would dread. Yes, losing a loved one still is one of life’s hardest heartbreaks. But what was once a dark and dreary proceeding is now a liturgy of laughter, looking over a lifetime legacy of magical moments and memories. Silly stories supersede the solemnness. Poignant pictures are posted throughout and revelry replaces the consummate sadness, generating genuine hope and healing. Maybe that is why they call it a “wake.” We are no longer putting someone to rest, rather, bringing to light the legacy they left behind.

Have you ever wondered how YOU will be remembered when you’re gone? What is the gravity of your gifts? I have this hope that my family and friends alike will relish the remembrances of endless adventures to picturesque parks, my Santa obsession and diligent delight in decorating for the holidays. They’ll roll their eyes but muster a smile recalling my sappy nature, hapless humor, and incessant singing. But most of all, may they never forget the everlasting, unconditional love I held for each and every one of them.

I pray my final act features a footprint of faith, family and fun. But in the meantime, I want to dig in and figure out the footprint of my final act - with less focus on the least of importance, and more on those I love the most. So what, say you, is YOUR swan song? It’s said that “Life is short. It’s up to you to make it sweet.” Happy Memorial Day to all!

Alan Bardach was missing for nearly six months before being officially reported dead.

Michael Randall’s wife gave birth to their second child the day before her husband was killed. Randall was posthumously awarded the Distinguished Service Cross for the “extraordinary heroism” he exhibited in helping evacuate wounded members of his platoon.

James Grant was killed while helping to rescue supplies and ammo from a vehicle damaged by a landmine.

Several of the soldiers on the list were awarded posthumous medals for heroism.

The last two names on the monument were obviously added to the list later since they’re not in alphabetical order. They puzzle me a bit. I hope someone can provide some clarity about them.

not sure why he’s listed among the Vietnam War dead.

Cpl. Cupp appears on the Crownland monument as “Charles John Cupp.” I found nothing under that name, but Ancestry’s military records database, Fold3, shows a “Cpl. John Charles Cupp”

I think this must be the same man because John Charles Cupp died in Vietnam and Noblesville is given as his hometown. Oddly, I was unable to find an obituary for him in the Ledger under either name.

Enjoy your holiday, but you might take a moment to reflect on the young men on this list, as well as the other members of our military who have lost their lives serving this country.

That IS the reason for Memorial Day, after all.

According to his obituary, Nelson T. (Ted) Hicks died in a plane crash near Guam. Since this took place after U. S. troops left Vietnam in 1973 and the crash wasn’t in Vietnam, I’m the Bible or vice versa.

Our societal problems are human problems and because of their very nature, the resolution far outweighs the capability of man alone.

Healing is the providence of Jesus. He died on the cross after healing so many people here on earth, but even as He died, he heals us with Holy Spirit, the one we should never forsake.

God, make me Your soldier. Let Your heart be my heart and Your eyes be my eyes and Your lips be my lips so I can help do Your work in this earthly Kingdom as You see fit.

Much of my life was spent with “the God of my own convenience” until He changed my heart. My heart now belongs to God and for that, I owe no apology. But as a Christian, it is my responsibility to share, even with other Christians, who fail to see our need for God in everything.

The City will provide the proceeds of the Bonds to Old Town Companies, L.L.C., or any affiliate thereof (collectively, the "Company") to finance a portion of the costs of the design and construction of infrastructure improvements, including but not limited to storm water improvements, utilities relocation, road improvements and structured parking (collectively, the "Projects") located in, or directly serving and benefiting, the North End Phase III Allocation Area, created or to be created within the Old Town Economic Development Area (the "Allocation Area"). The Projects will support a mixed-use project development in, benefiting or serving the Allocation Area consisting parking and residential uses.
The Bonds will not be an indebtedness or general obligation of the City and will not be payable in any manner by the taxing power of the City. The Bonds and the interest payable thereon will be payable solely from certain tax increment revenues generated from the Allocation Area, as described in the agreements of the City concerning the financing of the economic development facilities (such agreements, collectively, the "Financing Agreements"). Copies of the form of the Financing Agreements will be on file with the Clerk of the City and are available for public inspection at the office of the Clerk of the City during regular business hours daily, except Saturdays, Sundays and legal holidays.
At the time and place fixed for the public hearing, all taxpayers, residents or interested persons will be given an opportunity to express their views for or against the proposed financing in writing or in person.

Wandering Off Beaten Path Into Sports

TIM TIMMONS
Two Cents
Colonels scorecard . .

FOR THE 21 or 22 of you (statistics show more of you have started following me!) who read my scribbles, you know from time to time I dabble in sports. For the non-sports fans, I apologize. But then again, this gives you a few extra minutes to do something with your day.

FORGIVE me, but the national media – and even some of our state folks – drive me batty. Have you been listening to the “experts” on TV and radio talk about the Pacers? If not, the takeaways are:

- The Pacers are a “surprise” team
- They are playing well above their paygrade
- The playoff run is about to end in the conference finals
- And should the unlikely occur and the Pacers make the NBA finals, they are destined to lose

Bullpuckey, bullpuckey and bullpuckey!

First, what “surprise?” The Pacers were in the Eastern Conference finals last year. Can you think of some other time in sports where a team repeats and is called a surprise?

Above their paygrade? Please! Cleveland Coach Kenny Atkinson talked about how fast the Pacers played, how good they were and how they deserved to win. Let’s not forget that Cleveland was the No. 1 seed and Indiana won four out of five games off them. I might be wrong, but I suspect Atkinson knows a thing or two more about basketball than the media “experts.”

As for losing in the conference finals – maybe, maybe not. We’ll see.

And if they don’t lose there, anyone think either Western Conference foe is unbeatable? I mean these aren’t the 1999-2000 L.A. Lakers, right?

A FEW blocks over from where the Pacers play is the house that Peyton built – and the home to the Indianapolis Colts. It’s astounding to me how mediocre the team has become AND how much the Indianapolis media continues to talk about them.

Forget the conversation about the quarterback, general manager and coach. The truth is that Indy hasn’t had anything close to a good season since 2020 (11-5 and wildcard loser to Buffalo). Truth to tell, it’s been more than a decade since any sort of sustainable success – and it’s been more than 15 years since the last Super Bowl appearance.

Now that next year’s schedule is out, all we’re hearing is one rosy prediction after another. What has me chuckling is that so many folks are predicting a 2-0 start for Indy. The reality is that the Colts have not won a season opener since 2013. Barack Obama was president for crying out loud. If I was a betting man, I wouldn’t wager the house on that streak ending this year with Miami up first.

This is a franchise that is bordering on the worst fate in all of sports, irrelevancy.

BUT YOU know what? The weather finally seems to have kicked the cold (I mean really cold) to the curb for another year. The sun is shining and little kids are taking to the fields. That means Saturdays watching grandpups in T-ball, Little League, softball, soccer, swimming and whatever else they happen to be doing. Life is good, my friends!

REMEMBER the 1973 ABA finals? Our beloved Indiana Pacers – with Mel Daniels, George McGinnis, Bob Netolicky, Roger Brown, Darnell Hillman, Donnie Freeman, Freddie Lewis, Billy Keller and Don Buse – took on those evil Kentucky Colonels. The bad guys had Dan Issel, Artis Gilmore, Louis Dampier, Rick Mount (that felt so wrong) and Walt Simon. Kentucky won two of the first three games. The series went to seven games and the Pacers – led by Coach Bobby Leonard – won IN Kentucky 88-81 to secure the last championship in Pacer history. Wouldn’t it be great if that half-century-plus streak ended this year?

Sen. Walker Shares Update

KYLE WALKER
Guest Columnist
Fund spending on the program has increased by $5 billion.

These cost increases have impacted the state's ability to fund other important budget needs like K-12 education. That's why Senate Republicans prioritized Senate Enrolled Act 2 this year, which aims to get Medicaid spending under control by creating a more fiscally responsible program and ensuring only those who qualify for the program benefit from it.

Ensuring Indiana runs the Medicaid program with fiscal integrity is critical in order to protect the program for those who truly need it.

STAY SAFE from Scammers

As technology continues to change, it is important for Hoosiers to remain vigilant of those who wish to do them harm.

Earlier this week, fraudulent messages were purportedly sent by state agencies about collecting tolls. These messages are scams, as the state does not send unpaid toll notifications through texts or emails. Anyone who received these messages should not click on any links and should delete the messages.

In addition, in less than two weeks, Indiana will host the largest single-day sporting event in the world. While the Indianapolis 500 will be a fun-filled day for most attendees, there will also likely be scammers trying to ruin someone's day. If you plan to attend the race this year, be on the lookout for scammers, and remember if something seems too good to be true, it probably is.

HEALTHY LIVING for the Brain and Body

On May 19, from 6 – 7 p.m., the Alzheimer’s Association is holding a free educational session to learn about research in the areas of diet and nutrition, exercise, cognitive activity and social engagement.

There will also be hands-on tools to help incorporate these recommendations into a plan for healthy aging.

SIGN UP for Naloxone Training

There are two training courses in May for those who want to learn to distribute naloxone, which is a medicine that safely and rapidly reverses an opioid overdose.

In this training, participants will receive an education on opioids, learn to recognize the signs of an overdose and practice using life-saving naloxone. This hands-on session is designed to equip participants with the skills needed to act quickly in critical situations on order to save a life.

SUBMIT ROAD Issues to the City of Lawrence

Residents of the City of Lawrence can report street and pothole concerns to the city’s street department directly or complete an online form. The street department can be reached at (317) 545-8787.

State Sen. Kyle Walker represents District 31 which includes portions of Hamilton and Marion counties.

Carmel Announces Street Pavings

The City of Carmel Street Department has released its list of 2025 street paving projects. More than 50 lane miles of roadway are scheduled for an upgrade this spring and summer as the Street Department kicks off its annual effort.

Each paving project begins with concrete and curb repairs, a phase that typically takes a couple of weeks to complete. This is followed by milling the top surface of the blacktop and repaving it with a new, two-inch thick layer. Milling and paving projects require three to five days to complete and will necessitate lane restrictions.

The Street Department uses the Pavement Condition Index (PCI) rating system to determine the priority of repair for our roadways. StreetScan (pictured) is employed to survey all 1,400 lane miles of Carmel roads bi-annually. Laser-measuring technology assigns PCI scores to each road segment. This laser device is mounted at the rear of a vehicle with a roof-mounted camera for 360-degree imagery.

“By continuing to utilize data-driven asset management, we are able to objectively prioritize roads for resurfacing. This treatment method allows us to extend our road networks life, while ensuring high standards are maintained,” said Matt Higginbotham, Carmel Street Commissioner.

Migratory Bird Hunting Seasons Announced

Indiana’s migratory bird hunting seasons for 2025-26 have been submitted to the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service. The hunting seasons include those for mourning dove, waterfowl (i.e., ducks, coots, mergansers, and geese), woodcock, snipe, and sora rails.

Species	Area	Segment 1	Segment 2	Segment 3
Mourning Dove	Statewide	Sept. 1 – Oct. 19	Nov. 1 – 30	Dec. 20 – 30
Woodcock	Statewide	Oct. 15 – Nov. 28
Snipe	Statewide	Sept. 1 – Dec. 16
Sora Rail	Statewide	Sept. 1 – Nov. 9
Early Teal	Statewide	Sept. 6 – 14
Ducks, coots, and mergansers	North Zone	Oct. 18 – Dec. 7	Dec. 20 – 28
	Central Zone	Nov. 1 – 9	Nov. 22 – Jan. 11
	South Zone	Nov. 8 – 9	Nov. 29 – Jan. 25
Canada geese, light geese, and Brant geese	North Zone	Sept. 1 – 10	Oct. 18 – 26	Nov. 22 – Feb. 15
	Central Zone	Sept. 1 – 10	Nov. 1 – 9	Nov. 22 – Feb. 15
	South Zone	Sept. 1 – 14	Nov. 8 – 12	Nov. 22 – Feb. 15
White-fronted Geese	North Zone	Nov. 22 – Feb. 15
	Central Zone	Nov. 22 – Feb. 15
	South Zone	Nov. 22 – Feb. 15
Youth and Veteran only hunting days	North Zone	Oct. 11 – 12
	Central Zone	Oct. 25 – 26
	South Zone	Nov. 1 – 2

The white-fronted goose season and bag limit are separate from those for other geese. The white-fronted goose season is closed during the first and second Canada goose segments but opens at the same time as the other geese seasons during the third segment. The daily bag limit is two white-fronted geese.

The Canada goose daily bag limit is five, which may include brant geese in aggregate, in any combination. The daily bag limit for light geese (snow and Ross’s geese) remains 20.

There is one change in duck bag limits from 2024-25. The daily bag limit for pintails is three. The scaup daily bag limit remains one during the first 15 days of the duck season, and two for the rest of the season.

The possession limit for all migratory birds is three times the daily bag limit, except for light geese, for which there is no possession limit.

Find more information about the migratory gamebird hunting seasons and regulations at on.IN.gov/gamebird-seasons.
